FRANCE TO NOTIFY GERMANY OF PLANS

Troops Being Sent to Ruhr Valley
Only to Protect Engineers, Notification Says

BELGIUM TAKES SAME STAND

French Forces Numbering 36,000
Will Remain Encamped Around
Essen Ready to Intervene

Mayence, Jan. 10.—Thirty French
troop trains left for the Ruhr border today.

Coblentz, Jan. 10.—Twenty train-
loads of French troops, including Spahis and Moroccan cavalry and
machine gunners, passed through
during the night.

Dusseldorf, Jan. 10.—Fifty thousand French troops are now concentrated in this vicinity, it was estimated today.

By WEBB MILLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Jan. 10.—France's formal
notification to Germany states that
troops are being sent to the Ruhr
valley only to protect engineers who
will go to the coal mines, it was officially announced today. The notice
was to be sent this afternoon.

The French forces will remain encamped around Essen and will not intervene unless the engineers are menaced.

Belgium, too, will notify Germany
to this effect.

Thursday troops will advance on Essen in an encircling movement
from north and south, according to
final plans of the French high command, it was learned today.

About 36,000 troops, including
eight regiments of infantry, six of
cavalry, with artillery, the most modern tanks, airplanes, and armored cars, will take part in the
peaceful "capture" of the wealthy Ruhr city.

Allied engineers, including Belgian
and Italian, will accompany the
advance guard, it is understood and
will take up positions immediately
at the coal mines.

Just about four hours will be occupied in the advance; in that time
the horizon blue trap will have closed
in from two directions and Essen
will be under French occupation.

Premier Poincare has taken steps
to inform Germany of the French
plans. Staff officers in the occupied
area have communicated with German burgomasters. The French ambassador in Berlin is expected to be here today.

COMMUNITY MEETING HELD AT CARTHAGE

Large Crowd Attended Meeting and Heard Talks by School Officials
Tuesday Night

JUDGE SPARKS MADE TALK

A large crowd attended the community meeting held for the Ripley
township school patrons, Tuesday
night in the auditorium at Carthage.
Approximately 225 people attended
the meeting, and Judge Will M.
Sparks delivered the address of the
evening, which was highly appreciated by the audience.

The program which was given, opened with the song, "America", directed by Miss Hannan. James G.
Miller, county attendance officer,
spoke on "The Proper Relationship
of the Attendance Officer to the Parent." Miss Josephine Herkless
gave a reading and she was followed
by a talk by Miss Grace Ewing,
county Red Cross nurse on, "Health
and Hygiene".

A trio of Carthage high school
girls, the Misses Overman, Lineback
and Rawls, gave several musical
numbers, and they were followed by
an address, "Rural School Problems", by Birney D. Farthing, county school superintendent.

Judge Sparks' address concluded
the program, and it was said to be
one of the best community meetings
held in the county.

COURT BUSINESS PICKS UP TODAY

Several Matters Come Before Attention Of The Court, Including
Petitions For Change Of Venue

FORGER GETS A SENTENCE

Earl Ives, Pleads Guilty, And Sentence Of 2 to 14 Years Is Suspended During Good Conduct

Several matters in the circuit court
have been filed and business picked
up today, although no case was being tried. A few cases remain on
the docket for a hearing this week,
but the jury has not been called
until Monday.

A delayed record reveals that Earl
Ives, arrested in Conersville early
last week, was arraigned Saturday
and pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery, receiving a fine of $10 and
a sentence of from 2 to 14 years,
which was suspended. He gave his age as 22 years, and the sentence
at Jeffersonville was held up pending good behavior.

Two cases on file will go to other counties, as changes of venue have been asked by petitions presented,
but no action taken.

One case, in which Edgar D. Johnson, et al., are plaintiffs, and Fred
I. Barrows, et al., are defendants,
the latter has filed a petition for a change. The case originated in Fayette county and was sent here on a
change, and the petition filed today
will be the second change, if it is granted. The plaintiff secured the first change. The case is a complaint on a contract.

In the case of Jetho C. Meek and
Alva M. Reed against George M.
Thompson, et al., a complaint on a
note, the plaintiff has filed a motion
for a change of venue from the county.

Judge Fred Gause of Newcastle,
was here Tuesday afternoon sitting
as a special judge in the case for
which he was recently appointed, and
in which John H. Zeigler is plaintiff and Sylvester Kirkpatrick and Howard Ewbank are defendants, the
action being for an injunction.

The special judge heard evidence
on several demurrers and matters
pertaining to the case, but the evidence in the case proper was not
presented for a hearing at this time.

This morning Judge Sparks heard
the case of Jada Aspey against Clyde Kitchen, in which the plaintiff was awarded judgment amounting to $1,897.95 and costs on his complaint on a note. The plaintiff dismissed the action against the
two other defendants, Samuel Col-
ter and Harry Colter.

ASSESSORS WILL HOLD CONFERENCE

Annual Meeting With State Board
of Tax Commissioners Will be Held January 16—18

IS REGARDED AS IMPORTANT

Newly Elected Township Assessors
are Urged by County Assessor
to Attend State Meeting

Township assessors of Rush county, who with few exceptions are now
in the office and are not familiar with the duties of the office, are
urged in letters addressed to them
by Earl F. Priest, county assessor,
to attend the twenty-second annual conference of the state board of tax
commissioners and county assessors,
which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 16, 17
and 18.

A program for the conference has just been received by Mr. Priest.
He says that the members of the
state board expect the coming conference to be the best one in the history of such events.

Practically all of the county assessor's of the state attend this annual conference, because it is here
that plans are made for the annual spring assessment of property for
taxation purposes, and all matters
relating to taxation are discussed.

Township assessors are especially
urged to attend this year, because
the vast majority of them took office
the first of the year and have had no
experience in valuing property for taxation purposes. Mr. Priest believes that the knowledge that they
will gain at the conference will be
of immense value to them in the
spring when they begin to assess
property.

The conference will open at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, January
16, and will be called to order by
Will Hough, a member of the state
commission. The opening address
will be made by Chairman Brown and
there will be a short address by Governor Warren T. McCray. The afternoon session will open at 1:30 with
an address by Commissioner Hough
on the subject, "Problems of Taxation in This and Other States". The discussion of the subject will be followed with an address by Schuyler
C. Mowrer, state inheritance tax investigator, on the "Inheritance Tax". After a discussion of this subject, the conference will adjourn for
the day and committees will meet.

The Wednesday morning session
will open at 9 o'clock with a discussion of "The Duties of Assessing Officers" by Commissioner Zoer-
cher. The response will be made by Lilburn, Greene county assessor. The remainder of the morning will be devoted to a round table discussion.

"Taxation" will be the subject of
an address by Chairman Brown at
the opening of the afternoon session
at 1:30. "Tax Collections" will be
the subject of an address by R. B.
Bradford, Lake county treasurer.

OPPOSED TO BOTH MEASURES

Noble Farmers Against Gas Tax
and County Unit School Bill

The Noble Township Farmers' association held its regular monthly
session Tuesday night at the New Salem school building. Discussions
were held concerning the proposed legislation changing the unit of the
school system from township to county and placing a tax on gasoline.

By a rising vote it was shown
that a substantial majority was opposed to both. This being the first meeting of the calendar year, the
following officers, all of whom
served last year, were re-elected for
the ensuing year: President, Willard
P. King; vice-president, Walter Norris; secretary-treasurer, Theodore F.
Holden; township directors, Wilbur
E. Logan, Paul P. Morris, A. Line
Jinks; Charles L. Newhouse and De-
Alma Hartman; county director,
George Smith.

MANY VIOLATORS CITED LAST YEAR

Total of 302 Criminal Cases Were Filed in Three Courts in Rushville
In 1922

27 WERE SENT TO PRISON

Circuit Court Had 151 Cases, Justice
Court 115, and Only 36 in Police
Court

Three courts in Rushville handling
criminal cases, had a combined total of 302 cases placed on file during 1922, according to a summary of
the year's business just completed,
and of this number, 27 persons were
given sentences in the state institutions.

The three courts are police court,
presided over by Mayor Walter Thomas, justice of peace court, by J. P.
Stech and the circuit court by Judge
Will M. Sparks.

In the circuit court during the
year there were 151 cases filed, 115
in Justice Stech's court and 36 in
the police court. The latter is way
below the docket for most cities the size of Rushville, which is due either to one of two things—lack of enforcement of law, or the absence of law violators.

In the circuit court one prisoner
drew a life sentence and six individuals were given suspended sentences.
These suspensions were granted to
two liquor law violators, and in bad
checks and wife desertion cases, and
in one case for assault and battery
with intent to kill.

Of the number sentenced, six went
to the state prison at Michigan City,
eight to the reformatory, 12 to the penal farm, one to jail and one to
the asylum. One liquor case in police court, also caused the offender to be sent to the state farm.

The year's docket in the circuit
court had only one murder case listed, and the defendant pleaded guilty
and received a life sentence.

In Justice Stech's court, where 115 affidavits were filed during the year, the crimes were of many kinds,
embracing smaller cases, as well as larger cases. A total of 13 defendants accused of issuing bad checks,
pleaded guilty and are out on good
behavior with their fine of $100
withheld.

In police court the 36 cases filed
during the year were for intoxication, and smaller offenses, and the 36 affidavits involved 42 people, several of whom were not prosecuted or
were acquitted.

PASSENGER SERVICE IS TO BE CURTAILED

One Train Each Way to be Removed
by Pennsylvania and Sunday
Service Discontinued

ORDER EFFECTIVE SUNDAY

Curtailement of passenger service
on all branches of the Pennsylvania
railroad will affect the line passing
through Rushville, according to an announcement received here today,
in which it is stated two passenger trains will be taken off, and the Sunday train service will be discontinued.

The trains which will be taken off
are numbers 516, southbound, arriving in Rushville at 4:45 in the afternoon, and number 517, northbound at 11:45 in the morning. Both trains carry mail, and serve all points along the line. These trains
have been operated for years, running daily except Sunday.

The other trains, one in each direction, going south at 7:20 in the morning and north at 6:35 at night,
will be operated as usual, excepting
on Sunday. The changes will be in effect Sunday.

The reason assigned for the curtailment of service is said to be due
to automobiles transportation and
good roads, which has caused steam
road business to drop. The smaller towns in the county and along the
line will be greatly handicapped under the new schedule.

MYSTIC IS REOPENED TODAY

To Continue Under Management of
Mrs. Swift, Whose Husband Died

The Mystic theatre, which has
been closed for a week on account
of the death of the owner, B. F.
Swift, reopened today and will be managed by Mrs. Swift, who has returned from Dayton, Ohio, where
Mr. Swift was buried. The program
for today is Shirley Mason in "Shirley of The Circus" and a Mutt and Jeff comic.

Some wrong impressions were created by the reproduction recently
of an advertisement inserted in a
New York film paper by Tom J.
Geraghty, former Rushville man, in
which he extended Christmas and
New Year's greetings, and commenting on the pictures he had directed,
said that he spoke as an exhibitor because he owned the Mystic theatre at Rushville. As a matter of fact, he only owns the building in which the Mystic is located and not the theatre, which is generally known here.

CHARGES ALLIES FORGOT ARMENIA

Gen Azagapian Asserts Unspeakable
Turk Has Made Armenians Race
Of Refugees And Orphans

ADDRESSES TWO LUNCH CLUBS

Armenian Diplomat Makes Dramatic
Plea For United Front Against
Enemy Of Christianity

Forsaken when their services were
no longer needed, the Armenians
have become a race of refugees and orphans, General M. N. Azagapian, Armenian soldier, diplomat and scholar, asserted before a joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs
at the Social club today noon.

Ministers of the city were special guests, together with L. Link, county
chairman of Near East Relief, which
will make a special appeal next
month for funds for Armenian orphans. Churches of the city will assist in the campaign.

Dr. J. B. Kinsinger, president of the Kiwanis club, presided at the joint meeting and introduced Mr.
Link, who in turn introduced Gen.
Azagapian.

The Armenian officer recounted
briefly the deeds of valor performed
by the Armenians during the world
war—Armenians who fought in every
allied army to help defeat the Germans and the Turks. He recalled
how the Armenians fought the Turks
with their backs against the wall for
seven months on the banks of the Caspian Sea to prevent the opponents of the allies from gaining control of a vast supply of petroleum,
without which the Germans could not
win the war.

How the Armenians held out
against superior odds and defeated
the Turkish army, the speaker said,
is a matter of history and for their
deed they were praised not alone in Paris, London and Washington, but
also by General Von Ludendorff German general, who stated in a recent
book that the Germans were forced
to ask for an armistice because they could not obtain a sufficient supply

WILL ACT AS A DIRECTOR

Denning Havens Accepts Position

Denning Havens of this city has accepted a position with the Rogers Producing Company of Postoria, O., and will leave Thursday for that city, where he will be assigned to some other place to direct home talent plays. The Postoria firm is the same which has furnished directors and plays for several Rushville shows, including "All Aboard," "Katcha-Koo" and "Kathleen", and Mr. Havens had important role in these productions.

His new position as director will take him into cities, where he will train and direct the management of plays, which will be produced under the auspices of the Rogers Company.

TO TIGHTEN BANDS ON MARRIAGE LAWS

Bill Introduced in Legislature Provides Posting of Marriage Notice
2 Weeks Before Ceremony

OTHER MEASURES IN HOPPER

Action on Bills to Kill Primary Law
Withheld as Protests Continue
to Come to Legislators

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—A bill
providing for stricter marriage and
divorce laws in Indiana was introduced in the legislature today by Miss Elizabeth Rainey of Indianapolis, only woman member of the house
of representatives.

Posting of notices of marriage
not less than two weeks prior to the
time set for the ceremony will be required of county clerk under the measure. The bill was referred to the committee on public morals.

Abolishment of the state purchasing agent was provided in a bill introduced by Representative Lew S.
Glore of Elkhart. This bill if passed
would mean the sacrifice of $6,000
a year salary now going to Fred
Robison, campaign manager for Governor McCray.

Representative Albert Clapp of Marysville presented a bill providing
for abolishment of the Indiana motor
police force and restoring the money
spent in its maintenance to the
highway commission fund.

Thirty days imprisonment for the
first offense of bootleggers and a fine of $100 to $500 was provided in
a bill introduced by Senator Oliver
E. Dunn. Another measure in the senate would abolish the engineers'
registration board. It was presented by Senator Hays.

Opponents of the primary election
law considering the repeal bills
pending before the legislature poised
their headman's axe today as they
received word from back home.

Like the king's executioner in
the days of old who spared men's
lives on last minute reprieves, the
elections committees in both senate
and house decided to delay action
until Friday or possibly Monday on
two bills introduced yesterday to repeal the primary law.

The trend among all the law makers turned decidedly against repeal
as the first mail this morning brought

"SUPREME SUMMONS" IS MINISTER'S TOPIC

Splendid Audience Hears The Rev.
E. Richard Edwards at Main Street Christian Church

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE FRIDAY

A splendid audience heard a very
tender and touching sermon Tuesday
evening by the Rev. E. Richard Edwards at the Main Street Christian church. It was based on John, 11:28
the message of Martha to her sister
Mary, "The Master is come and cal-
leth for thee." So Christ today
through his word and His ministry
is calling to men and women to enter
into his service and receive the blessings he has to bestow, the
speaker said.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards is a "live
wire" full of fire and fervor and is attracting fine audiences and the attention of a large number of people
both in and outside of the church.

Tonight he will speak on "What Is
the Gospel? Why It's Power?" On Friday evening he will have a sermon of special interest to the young people of the city on "The Trophy Rooms of the Soul." A special invitation is extended to the school boys
and girls of the city to attend this service and listen to this message.

At the service last night Mrs.
Will McVay of Richmond gave a beautiful and pleasing solo. At tonight's service Mrs. L. C. Overdorf
and Miss Florene Gronier will sing a duet. The song service begins at 7:30 and the sermon at 8 o'clock.

CALLS ON WOMEN TO RALLY BEHIND PRIMARY

Dr. Amelia R. Keller Of Indianapolis Says Their Rights Will Be Jeopardized

IF THE LAW IS REPEALED

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—A battle cry for women of Indiana to rally behind the primary election law and prevent its repeal was sounded today by Dr. Amelia R. Keller, political leader and club woman.

"Everyone knows what happens to women in political conventions," Dr. Keller said. "Some men votes an entire delegation and the women are not even consulted."

"In the last state convention, Marion county had more than 200 delegates, including a few women. Some body voted the entire delegation when there were only about 150 delegates present and did not take the trouble to consult the women delegates—or most of the men for that matter."

Dr. Keller asked the women to assist in the defense of the primary before the legislature where two bills are pending providing for its repeal. Without the primary, the women are unable to express themselves on a choice of party candidates, she said.

"One of the things I can't understand is why the republican organization is against the primary when they know more than seventy-five per cent. of the people are for it."

"They are not bound to repeal the primary. If they don't know how the people feel, they should give them a chance to express themselves."

AMUSEMENTS

Big Picture Here Three Days

The farm yards of California were combed for animals to appear in the rural scenes of "The Old Homestead" which come to the Princess today, Thursday and Friday. It is a Paramount picture directed by James Cruz and is said to be a greatly elaborate version of the famous Denham Thompson stage classic.

Puppies, grown dogs, pigs, goats, horses, cows, chickens, ducks, cats, turkeys, kittens — almost every variety of the barnyard familiars, will be seen in the realistic scenes depicting the village of Ganzey, N. H. and the homestead itself.

The role of Uncle Josh is played by Theodore Roberts with his usual skill. George Fawcett, another great character actor is ably played by well T. Roy Barnes is the easygoing tramp, Harry Jack. Fritz Ridgway plays Ann and Reuben is portrayed by Harrison Ford, while other characters are ably played by well known actors.

A village of forty or more houses was constructed for the picture at the Lasky ranch, this was afterwards partially demolished by a great wind storm which forms the thrilling climax to the picture.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure. —Advertisement.

bassard at Berlin has talked with representatives of the Cuno government. The Germans will be clearly informed as to each contemplated move, so they may co-operate and have the occupation go smoothly.

As soon as France's plans have been carried out, Poincare will announce them, probably through a speech to the chamber.

It was learned that the French engineers, upon arrival at Essen will commence immediately to partition Germany's coal production from this region. The Germans will be permitted the amount needed internally and the surplus will be divided between France and the allies in accordance with the Versailles treaty.

By CARL D. GROAT
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Essen, Jan. 10.—Hemmed in on the west by French cavalry, infantry, tanks and airplanes, all ready to move at ford of command from Paris, Essen, first object of France's punitive occupation plans was a city of strained nerves today.

The population is tense but reserved. The uncertainty as to when the French troops will enter the city is causing the most worry. Hotel guests were notified they might have to give up their rooms at any time.

The Poles are at Kettwig, a few miles from here. Troop trains are constantly arriving. They are reported to be all white with exception of a few Animites. Many are quartered with the inhabitants.

The first act of the local populace to frustrate the contemplated invasion occurred overnight. Knowing the French were about to come in and start their customs barriers between the Ruhr valley coal fields and Germany proper, the coal syndicate (a semi-private, a semi-governmental coal distributing agency) dissolved its headquarters here and took all its papers and files to Hamburg.

It is claimed that the French will have difficulty with operating mines here without the syndicate's apparatus.

Unions having headquarters here published a strong protest against occupation by the French, declaring the latter are planning an act of force which is a breach of the treaty.

Denver's Famous Juvenile Judge Says Marriage Fails as Social Institution

By ALICE ROHE

New York, Jan. 10.—"Marriage is (Copyright, 1923, by United Press) a failure. As a social institution it has failed miserably."

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Denver's famous juvenile court jurist waved a sheaf of statistics which had just reached him as he made this startling statement today in an exclusive interview.

"We have got to face the issue and how many people are really thinking and talking about this social problem?" he said.

Judge Lindsey, who is now in New York on a lecture tour had just received data concerning an investigation he is making.

"In the year ending Dec 15, there were three thousand marriage licenses granted in Denver and 1,500 divorce suits filed. How many separations are never filed? I'd say as many as divorces.

"In fact, from my investigation, I learn that non-support and separation cases add another 1,500 to the 1922 record. You can see that means one separation for every marriage. Actually there were fifty more divorces applied in 1922 than in 1921 and six hundred fewer marriages solemnized.

"Eliminating these latest figures concerning separation and dealing solely with divorce suits filed the number for Denver in 1922 is 1,542 as compared with 1,497 in 1921. The total of marriage licenses of 1922 is 3,008 as compared with 3,628 in 1921. In the case of the divorces filed the increase in 45, and marriages decreased 618.

"In Chicago last year as reports show me, there were 39,000 marriage licenses granted, mostly to young people, and 13,000 divorce decrees were signed. These signed decrees do not represent all that were applied for.

"This means that regard for accepted conventions is undergoing a great change.

"It doesn't mean that society is becoming decadent. But it means that society must be psycho-analyzed. Just as we recognize the effect of suppressed desires and instincts in an individual so we must apply the same analysis to social life. We must realize the fact that we are facing a terrible conflict between instincts. Social life today is a matter of artificial restraints. Instead it should be regulated by natural restraints.

"We are satisfied with laws. They do not always bring a satisfactory remedy. I've placed 52 new laws on the Colorado statutes and I believe that the law of the heart is more important than the law of the statutes.

"I think that 75 per cent of men are not true to their wives. I do not say these are chronic cases—mere lapses—frequently. They capitulate to instinct. And this adds to the recognition of the failure of artificially imposed conventions.

"We know that divorce would not be so overwhelming in the western states if marriage institutions were a success. And what is true of western cities is true of all cities.

"When an institution which is conventionally right created a thing that is absolutely wrong you can't escape the re-action.

"Divorce and separation are absolutely necessary until the conditions that cause them are corrected. In the whole problem facing us of changing conventions my main interest lies in the child. Recognition of the child of the unmarried mother is the first thing of importance."

"Then you do not admit the expressed fear that such recognition leads to promiscuity and convention-branded in morality?" I asked.

"But", he exclaimed, "promiscuity and convention-branded immorality are better than murder and is the result of lack of recognition of the child's right to be born of unmarried mothers.

"We can never raise the standards of morality by checking divorce. The church has tried but has failed to save the married state by this method. It will never do it.

"We've got to recognize the fact that we are face to face with one of the greatest social problems in modern times in this statistically proved failure of marriage. Understand, I believe in the marriage state but as it is today we cannot deny that there is something wrong. We simply have to psycho-analyze our social life and our conventions."

MAY ABOLISH COMMISSION

Bill Introduced To Cut Off Main Source Of Commission's Revenue

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—An attempt to abolish the state highway commission was seen in a bill introduced by Senator Shirley, democrat of Ft. Wayne, seeking to take the inheritance tax money and the funds derived from registration of motor vehicles and examination of chauffeurs away from the highway body.

This would restore the highway construction system of Indiana to the status in which it was before the commission existed and in effect would abolish the commission by cutting off its main source of revenue.

The bill would leave only the general tax of three cents and a fraction for the support of the commission and the construction of highways. The registration and examination fees would be returned to the counties from which they came.

Plans for rushing the repeal bills through both houses were quickly abandoned when supporters of the measures learned the lay of the land. Although it has been charged that efforts were made to "stack" the elections committees with members opposed to the primary, the election committee in neither house could agree upon an unanimous report favoring the bills.

It was possible the bill may never go to a vote in senate, but may come up for approval or rejection in the house. Senator Clem Richards of Terre Haute, caucus chairman, was among those opposing a committee report which would recommend passage.

Friends of the primary were organizing their forces and preparing to put up a hard fight against repeal. Ed Toner, one of the most active friends of the primary established headquarters in a hotel and his place became headquarters for his followers.

Toner said he did not believe the republican organization even with approval of democratic leaders could force passage of the bill.

"The men who came to this legislature, came because they were elected at primaries," Toner said.

Is it reasonable to believe they will bite the hands that fed them?

"If the enemies of the primaries can emasculate it now by taking away the state-wide features, the next step would be to make it an optional matter with parties and in varying units—party control—and that would be the end of the primary. The women of the state would be disfranchised and the whole game would go back to politicians."

of petroleum to continue the conflict.

"We were praised for our support of the allied cause," the general continued, "but when we were no longer needed, the allies forgot us. The Turk arose from the war battered and beaten, knowing not which way to turn. But ere long he realized that the British and French were bickering among themselves and that he could restore himself to his former power.

Gen. Azgapatian recalled the steps by which the Turk had attained his present position because he is a master at the game of bluff, which he is playing with a master hand at Lauzanne, the speaker said, asserting that so long as the British and French were not of the same opinion, the Turk could bluster and bluff and refuse to sign anything.

Gen. Azgapatian charged that Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Rome, who is acting as American observer at Lauzanne, it not versed in the arts of diplomacy and that his two American advisors are pro-Turk.

He asked how long this condition would be permitted to exist; how long a Christian nation would stand by and permit the unspeakable Turk to dominate the affairs of the Near East and continue its campaign of eradication against the first Christians.

"But we have nothing except the highest regard and the deepest sense of obligation to the great American people," Gen. Azgapatian continued, commenting on the generous response from America to appeals for help. "No one but big, generous-hearted Americans could give so nobly as you have given. We believe that you will be rewarded for your splendid generosity."

Gen. Azgapatian, in closing, described the Armenian orphanages that are being supported by the Near East Relief—orphans where the American flag flies and where young Armenians are being given an American education, taught ideals and respect for the American flag.

Gen. Azgapatian discussed more in detail the work of the Near East Relief among Armenian orphans in two addresses at the Graham high school building this morning. He addressed the junior high school at 9:05 a. m. and the senior high school at 9:50, speaking 35 minutes each time.

MAY DRAIN NINE LAKES

Department Of Conservation Asked To Investigate Project

Kendallville, Ind., Jan., 10. —The Indiana department of conservation will be asked to investigate the feasibility of draining nine lakes in northeastern Indiana, according to a petition drawn up here today.

The petition would construct a ditch in Noble county to take off water.

The ditch would effect lakes Bear, High Bristol, Port Mitchell, Murl, Muncie, Sand, and Bean.

A storm of protest has been entered against the proposal by Noble county citizens. A hearing will be held in Albion, January 22.

The construction of such a ditch, it is claimed would mean the disappearance of these lakes to convert a few acres of marshes into farmland. The proposed ditch is said to interest 719 persons, but only twenty-two persons have signed the ditch petition.

President States New Secretary Of Interior Will Be From West

Washington, Jan. 10. —President Harding has assured leading members of congress that the new secretary of the interior to succeed Albert Fall, who retires March 4, will be a man from the territory west of the Missouri river.

This eliminates the possibility of the appointment of Senator New, Indiana, or Carmi Thompson, both of whom have been prominently mentioned. It narrows the race down to Senator Poindexter and Representative Mondel, both of whom were defeated in the last election, and Joseph, Dixon, former Bull Moose leader of Montana.

Pension Grab Veto

President Harding was sound in his reasoning when he vetoed the recently passed pension bill which would grant pensions to women who had married veterans of the Civil War 60 years after the war closed. It is common knowledge that many women have married veterans in recent years. President Harding will be misrepresented as heartless in his attitude toward widows of Civil War Veterans. His act in vetoing the bill does not relate to women who were the wives of veterans over a considerable period of time. The bill he vetoed proposed to grant pensions to widows who have no real claim upon the government.

The government should be just before it is generous. No one will question for a moment, and President Harding does not, the fitness of a liberal provision for veterans of the Civil War and widows of those veterans who either shared the shocks and sorrows of the war or who have been for a considerable portion of their lives the helpmates of the veterans. It would be utterly unfair to class as adventuresses all women who have in recent years married old veterans, and there is no need to do so. Whether they are adventuresses or not, they have no more claim upon the government than other women who have married old men in recent years. President Harding will be misrepresented as heartless in his attitude toward widows of Civil War Veterans. His act in vetoing the bill does not relate to women who were the wives of veterans over a considerable period of time. The bill he vetoed proposed to grant pensions to widows who have no real claim upon the government.

Coue's Cure

Emil Coue, the auto-suggestion apostle from Nancy, is here to expound his theories of mental cure for curable diseases. A self-educated man who claims to have lost his rheumatic pains just two years ago by the same treatment he wishes others to adopt, the progress of his tour will be watched with interest throughout the country.

Like Joan of Arc who suddenly became aware of almost super-natural powers, Coue's transmogrification from Nancy druggist and gardener to apostle of cure by mental concentration was swift and complete. Two years ago he was placidly engaged in a small druggist's business in his home in France, dividing his time between the drug business, a gardener of flowers and the latest cures for rheumatism. Almost over night he became a figure of worldwide repute.

Oddly enough, Coue got his idea for the cult from an American pamphlet that cost him exactly 30 francs. The pamphlet was in the nature of a testimonial from a Rochester, N. Y., man who became miraculously cured through the powers of auto-suggestion. In spite of scoffing friends, Coue says he adopted the treatment and was cured.

Coue's apparent willingness to work hand in hand with the medical profession should go far toward obviating any opposition that might arise. But as his tour progresses, the strength of Coue's doctrines will be subjected to a severe test.

Uniform Warnings

A concerted effort, sponsored by various associations of automobilists, is afoot to unify the existing systems of road signs. It is a commendable movement and should be accorded wide support.

In almost every state of the union different types of warnings for intersection roads, railroad crossings, curves, etc., are displayed. The plan under consideration would standardize all this so that a railroad crossing in the east would be marked in exactly the same manner as a railroad crossing in the west. The need for the reform is obvious. It should be encouraged.

County Says People Sit Idly by
and Allow Useless Laws

SHOULD SMOTHER BAD ONES

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10—Oliver Kline, former state senator from Huntington county, appealed to the people of Indiana today to give more attention to the activities of the state legislature.

"People sit idly by and see an obnoxious bill enacted into law and then they let up a howl that can be heard from one side of the state to the other," Kline said. "They should watch the bills before they become laws and bring pressure to bear upon their senators and representatives in the legislature to smother the bad ones and approve the good ones."

"I have seen this plan worked out: A farmers organization up my way took up every bill that affected them discussed it, cast a vote on it and sent the result to their representatives in the legislature."

"If other organizations and clubs and societies would do this, the law makers would soon learn the attitude of their constituents and of the people generally toward pending legislation."

Increase Your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength!

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are under weight? Simply because they are under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. Crawfordsville High School Basketball Team, Once State Champs, Are Again Going Good

WON FIRST STATE TOURNEY

Back in 1911 They Captured First Title, But Since War Have Been on Down Grade Until Now

By R. L. HESLER
(Written for United Press)
Crawfordsville, Ind., Jan. 10.—After a lapse of a few years, during which time the Crawfordsville high school team played a minor role in state athletics, the C. H. S. squad of 1923 gives every promise of returning basketball here to its proper place in Hoosier ranks.

With a squad composed entirely of underclassmen, Coach "Brandy" C. Freeman, former Wabash college star, had built a smooth running machine. If the Crawfordsville team were to enter the sectional tourney at time it would carry off first honors easily.

Up until the great war the locals possessed one of the most feared aggregations in Indiana. State basketball tournaments were begun in 1911 and it fell to Crawfordsville to win the first classic.

While C. H. S. has not finished ahead of the field since that year, they have always been in the thick of the fight and three times went into the championship finals. On two other occasions they were semi-finalists.

During the war period athletics reached their lowest plane and since then the teams have been out of the contending class. Freeman who had charge in "the good old days" was returned to the staff last season and by careful coaching has constructed another strong five.

The team this year is one of the smallest that ever wore the gold and blue uniform, but a remarkable fighting spirit has successfully carried it through to a number of fine victories. Jefferson of Lafayette fell before Crawfordsville recently and when it is known that Jefferson in turn defeated Franklin, 1922 state champions, the class of the local five can be determined.

Freeman's five depends on its fight and speed to win games. With a steady improvement being shown each week, Crawfordsville can be expected to be a contender for the high honors this season.

New York, Jan. 10.—Tennis has grown to such a degree of popularity in this country that the United States Lawn Tennis Association is planning to finance the erection of a $500,000 stadium at Forest Hills, N. Y.

The need of more room was shown last year at the Davis Cup challenge round and that the men's singles championship in Philadelphia.

While it is praiseworthy to have in this country something to compare with the great stadium at Wimbledon, England, perhaps it is not just to other sections of the country to select Forest Hills as the site.

It is true that no other section of the country could support such a project but it is true also that other sections of the country are entitled to see some of the classics and if a half million dollars are invested in the Forest Hills project, all the classics will go there.

Competition in practically all of the men's classes are great drawing cards, but interest in the women players has slumped, if attendance can be taken as an indication.

The women's championships at Forest Hills last year drew hardly a handful. The lack of interest was due perhaps to the justified feeling that there would be nothing to the tournament but Mrs. Molla Mallory, the champion, as one said:

"Everyone has seen Mrs. Mallory play."

To stimulate interest in the women players some foreign talent will have to be imported. It is understood that the committee will invite Miss Kathryn McKane, the British girl star, to compete.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the world's champion, may also be an entry. Her excuse last year was that she would never visit the United States as long as Julian S. Myrick headed the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Myrick is retiring now, so she may change her mind.

The French star may have another reason for coming back to vindicate herself.

Mrs. Mallory, to continue the feud between them, is going back to Europe again next summer and she may wind up in the British championships again with Suzanne.

If Suzanne should happen to beat her again, she would have more inducement to come over and do it again in front of the American fans.

What will happen to Bill Tilden when he goes to play with a stump of a finger on his racket hand, of course, is the biggest thing of interest in the coming season.

Tilden, apparently, is not so optimistic about his chances but when he says he feels that he may not finish within the first ten next season

he is following his usual tendency not to be boastful or vain about his ability.

If Tilden should happen to be seriously handicapped by the loss of his finger, slumping interest in the Davis Cup matches may be boosted.

Australia, for one, has taken the stand that it is unwise for their association to pay a huge amount of money to send a team to the United States to lose.

They, and several other nations, including the British and the Japanese, take the stand that as long as Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston are in their prime, they are unbeatable.

Hittin' 'Em and Missin' 'Em

Hittin' 'em passed the first night without any mishaps.

Shelbyville is still shouting over their victory with Franklin. They expect to add two more games to their credit this week, when they play Greencastle Friday and Pendleton on Saturday—both games away from home.

To market, to market,
To find a state champ
Home again, home again,
Trampety, tramp;
Vincennes or Bloomington,
Bedford or Jefferson,
We give it up
So help us out.

Don't Forget Elwood

Our red-headed assistant is peeved because Elwood isn't being figured in this state dope. They are listed on the bottom round of the big ten in Indiana—but so was Rushville last year.

The Arlington Athletic Club pulled the strings of victory last night, defeating Greensburg 34 to 22.

ALMOST A TRACK MEET

The Methodist team didn't have any show last night with the St. Mary's team, being defeated 49 to 12. Keating and Joyce scored 7 goals each for the winners.

Hittin' 'em hopes that Columbus has that "revenge stuff" out of their system by Friday night.

Speakin' of revenge reminds us that last year after Rushville cleaned up on every team and had 24 straight games to their credit at one time, every team we meet this year is out for revenge—and they usually get it.

Garfield of Terre Haute comes to the front with information that they are going to fight again this year, and be runners up in the state. If they do, we will take our hats off to 'em.

Vincennes, with the best record of any team in the state, playing 45 games in two years and only losing one, is again heralded as possible state timber. The lone game they lost was in the state tourney last year.

Ten high school teams, all of this county, excepting our close neighbor Fairview, will gather here February 3 for an invitational tourney. Since Manilla knocked off Milroy last week, it has put another hat in the ring in this County, and puts Manilla on the top round of the ladder. Both of 'em will be here.

SO WILL JOHN GERAGHTY'S TEAM.

Raleigh has a scrappy team this year, and will give anyone in the county a good tussle. Watch their smoke Friday when Milton plays there.

Newbold, forward on the Rushville team, is a comer, and with a little more confidence in himself, he will play rings around the rest of the basket shooters. He showed his Irish brothers up at Indianapolis,

how they played basketball at the St. Mary's school here.

If there is anything in this Cope stuff about "day by day, in every way, getting better and better," we might try it on our basketball team.

ARLINGTON A. C.'S ADD ANOTHER HIDE

CURTAIN RAISER OVERTIME

The Arlington Athletic Club added another basketball game to their credit when they took the Y. M. C. A. team of Greensburg into camp, 34 to 22, Tuesday evening at the Arlington gymnasium.

The Greensburg team was handicapped on account of the absence of the Marlow brothers, who were out of the game on account of sickness. The Y team started very fast and at one time had the score 11 to 4 in their favor but the Arlington team soon got together and broke Greensburg's passing game and were soon out in front, the lead which they obtained throughout the remainder of the game. The first half ended 14 to 12 in favor of the A. C.'s.

Shook as usual was the leading point-getter for the winners, followed closely by Gardner. Palmer showed best for Greensburg.

The Junior A. C.'s had the fight of their life when they won from the Webb Independent team in an overtime game, 38 to 36. The next home game for the A. C.'s will be Thursday, January 18 when Cumberland plays at Arlington.

The line-up and summary of the big game, is as follows: St. Mary's: Cauley and R. O'Neil, forwards; C. O'Neil, center; Jones and Mullins, guards; Methodist: Tabor and Empty, forwards; Moore, center; Smith and Martz, guards; substitutions, St. Mary's, Keating and Joyce, Methodist, Fairbanks, Rudolph Chaplin. HAS A COMMANDING LEAD

Jake Schaffer Ahead of French Champion in Billiard Contest

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Jake Schaffer of San Francisco today held a commanding lead over Roger Conti, French billiard champion in their match here to determine who will meet Willie Hoppe for the worlds title.

Schaeffer with an unfinished run of 160 went out in the second block of the three block match with a lead of 1,000 to 650. Schaffer last night ticked off his 500 points while Conti was struggling to mark up 313.

Both players resorted to a defensive game throughout most of the evening and this resulted in lower averages. Conti got away to a good start but failed to hold the pace.

FRANKLIN TRIMS WABASH CHAMPS

WIN BY FOUR POINT MARGIN

Fast Franklin Forwards Make 13 of 20 Points Scored by Baptists—Wabash Weak at Center

Crawfordsville, Ind., Jan. 10.—The Franklin college quintet, playing a furious game of basketball, defeated the Little Giants here Tuesday night, 20 to 16, in one of the fastest games ever seen on the local floor. The score at the end of the half stood 9 to 7 in favor of the Baptists.

With the score tied at 16 and only four minutes to play, B. Friddle pulled the contest out of the fire and made victory certain with two long shots from the center of the floor. The Baptist back guard was traveling at such a rapid rate when he made one of the baskets that he fell into the bleachers before being able to stop.

The Wabash center position was weak. Pearce, Thorne and Thompson were tried in an attempt to stop the driving attack of the Franklin offense. For the Scarlet, Adam, Goldsberry and Grater were the outstanding players. Adam with four field goals to his credit was the high point man for the local five. Goldsberry made one field goal and four free throws. Grater, although credited with no points, played a good game at guard and perhaps kept the score of the winners down by his flashy guarding.

Vandivier and B. Friddle carried their team over to victory. The fast Franklin forward made thirteen points out of the twenty for his team, with three field goals and seven free throws. B. Friddle broke into the stalling column when he caged the two long ones late in the game.

Wabash had many attempts at the basket but failed to connect for points. The contest was witnessed by more than 2,000 persons.

Lineup and Summary

Purdue Beats Irish

Lafayette, Ind. Jan. 10.—Purdue handed Notre Dame a drubbing in a rough and hard-fought game here Tuesday, 39 to 20. Gullion's field goal early in the game gave Purdue a lead which it held for a short time until Enright and Kizer put Notre Dame in front, 5 to 2. Purdue players soon got their basket eyes open and started scoring until the half ended, when the count, 19 to 44, was in their favor.

The rest between halves did the Purdue men good, as they rapidly drew away to a big lead in the second half. Gullion and Robbins, by some spectacular shooting, kept the score mounting, but Robbins was a little off form in his foul shooting.

Coach Lambert gave Robbins and Treat their first real tryouts last night and after the game the supporters were of the opinion that the Purdue coach has two sets of guards evenly matched.

Toward the end of the game the Purdue subs were sent in for a short workout. Moss at forward was under fire for the first time. Robbins, while good on offense, played a fine game at guarding. Masters and Eversman covered the floor in great style. Kizer kept the Notre Dame team in the scoring column with foul goal shooting and three field goals. Miller and Logan played strong floor games. PHYSICIANS URGED TO JOIN IN WAR ON DOPE

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Senator-Elect From New York Calls On Chicago Doctors To Help

CONGRESS CAN CHECK MENACE

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Physicians of the nation were urged to join in "the war on dope" by D. Royal S. Copeland, senator-elect from New York and Health Commissioner of New York City, in an address before the Chicago Medical Association here last night.

"Congress by the exercise of a little common sense can check the spread of this menace," Copeland declared.

"The manufacture of narcotics should be under the direct supervision of the government.

"We must work for international limitation of raising of opiate plants.

"The United States must prohibit the export of the drugs and must make every effort to break up the smuggling of opiates into this country."

Copeland asserted most doctors were out of patience with the Harrison anti-narcotic law because "it is filled with red tape."

"The medical profession is at fault in not dealing properly with drug addiction," Copeland charged. "Doctors are unwilling to have anything to do with it. Consequently the police are handling the underworld cases and 'quacks' are treating the addicts of higher society."

Teachers Drub Rose

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 10.—State Normal proved its superiority against Rose Poly at basketball Tuesday night, when it defeated the Engineer five 58 to 12. The Teachers led by Burris, worked the ball in for many close shots, but dropped them in with the same degree of accuracy from around the foul line. The Normal players were off form in the first half. They missed easy shots, failed to follow in properly and guarded with lack of precision. The score at the end of the half was 15 to 7.

FIGHT RESULTS

San Antonio—Kid Pancho, local flyweight, was given a ten round decision over Jimmie Russo of Michigan here last night.

Atlanta, Ga.—Battling Barnett of Atlanta and Luke Tenner of Charleston fought 12 rounds here to a draw last night.

The charity ball which was given at the Elks club Tuesday night under the auspices of the Tri Kappa sorority, was attended by approximately three hundred persons and proved to be the most delightful event of the winter's social calendar. Feature dances added to the attractiveness of the program, which opened with a grand march shortly after nine o'clock and continued until one o'clock.

The grand march was converted into a baloon dance when six girls, dressed in the Tri Kappa colors of black and white, distributed one hundred and fifty inflated balloons among the dancers. The girls assisting in this were Ellen Jane Capp, Judith Mauzy, Martha Jean Matlock, Martha Wyatt, Lora Dell Geise and Margaret Winship.

The elimination dance also was a diversion from the usual program. Each man was "tagged and numbered" and as numbers were called the dancers were asked to leave the floor. Slowly but surely all but a half dozen couples were eliminated and these remaining were presented with tin horns, toy drums, tin pans and other noise-making devices with which they were requested to play for the dancers.

The music by Riley's orchestra of Muncie was regarded as the best heard here this season and was enthusiastically applauded for repeated encores. The orchestra also offered a specialty number, with the director impersonating Creator and Miss Charlotte Norris sang one selection with the orchestra and was warmly applauded.

The gross receipts from the dance were $274.00 and with the expenses deducted, it is expected that approximately $175.00 will be realized for the Child Welfare association, which will use the money in correcting physical defects of school children whose parents are unable to do so. The sorority is indebted to the Elks lodge for permission to use the club

The Columbus Republican contains an account of a recent meeting of the Columbus Ladies' Matinee Musical, at which Miss Jessie Kitchen of Columbus, formerly of this city, and Mrs. George Hogsett provided a part of the program. Miss Ida Edburn, soprano and director of music in the Columbus schools, gave the vocal part of the program, and Miss Kitchen and Mrs. Hogsett the instrumental.

Speaking of Miss Kitchen and Mrs. Hogsett, the Republican says:

The entire program was distinguished by its beautiful selections, Miss Edburn's songs showing the great variety of music offered through American compositions and Miss Kitchen's and Mrs. Hogsett's selections being unusually pleasing duo numbers. All three musicians showed themselves to be accomplished artists, both in their display of technical and interpretive ability.

In the concerto op. 22, second movement, by Saint-Saens, Miss Kitchen had an opportunity to show her audience what a thorough and accomplished musician she is. The concerto is a difficult one and requires skill and insight to play it. These two qualities Miss Kitchen has to a remarkable degree. The difficult passages were executed perfectly but the thing that impressed the audience most was the knowledge and understanding of the composer's moods which Miss Kitchen showed. Much instrumental performance leaves its hearers cold but Miss Kitchen's playing so ably augmented by Mrs. Hogsett, stirred her listeners to warm and heartfelt applause.

In the Arensky suite, the two pianists displayed again this universal interpretive power. Their splendid rhythm and the perfect correlation of the two pianos were the technical foundation for their fine performance.

Their apparent understanding of each other and their ability to express that unity of musical knowledge gave to the entire suite its charm and beauty. The softness and fullness of tone of the "Romance," the rhythm and pulsation of

the "Valse," and the strength and vigor of the "Polonaise," gave the parts of the suite musical individuality, while there was underlying the three and interpretive unity rarely exhibited by players of duo piano music.

Waited Till The Cows Came Home

"I am indeed glad to write you this letter. I was a terrible sufferer from gasses in the stomach and colic attacks. The specialist our family doctor sent me to in Philadelphia, gave me no relief although I took his medicine till the cows came home. He finally said I would have to be operated. Luckily I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy then, and although it is now three years since I took a course of it, I have never had a symptom of my old trouble since." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale by druggists everywhere.

FEATURE SOYBEAN AND VEGETABLES

Addresses Were Given By George Briggs And Charles Meharry On Beans At Short Course Today

IT IS A DUAL PURPOSE PLANT

Vegetable Growers' Were Welcomed To Purdue By Dean J. H. Skinner Of School Of Agriculture

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 10.—King corn, Indiana's leading crop, shared honors today with the soybean, a coming crop, and vegetables on the annual short course program at Purdue University. The annual meetings of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association and the Indiana Vegetable Growers' Association featured the short course program and several hundred of those here for the work attended one of these sessions.

Addresses by George M. Briggs, of the University of Wisconsin, a leader in boosting the soybean crop in the north; Charles Meharry, Attica, one of the largest growers of beans in the corn belt; and C. M. Vestal, of Purdue, who has done noteworthy work in the feeding of mineral mixtures to hogs to supplement the beans with corn, featured the corn growers' program.

"The soybeans is the dual-purpose plant of the plant kingdom," said Mr. Briggs. "It's many uses puts it in the first rank." He enumerated the growing of beans for seed, the feeding of them to all kinds of livestock in the field with corn or alone; the pressing out of the oil which is used for food purposes or paints; and the use of the soybean flour and meal. He discussed various production methods. Mr. Meharry showed the place of the soybean in the crop rotation and told of its value on his own farms in Fountain County and Champaign Co., Ill. Mr. Vestal discussed the feeding of the beans.

"Purdue experiments show that corn and soybeans may be made equal to corn and tankage for fattening hogs by adding a mixture of 10 parts of 16 percent acid phosphate; 10 parts wood ashes of pulverized limestone and one part of common salt," said Mr. Vestal.

The vegetable growers' were welcomed to Purdue by Dean J. H. Skinner of the School of Agriculture. Disinfection of vegetable seed to kill various diseases, was discussed by M. W. Gardner and F. C. Gaylord of the Purdue staff. Prof. O. G. Anderson and Prof. W. E. Lommel then spoke on profitable spraying practices for the garden, giving results of Purdue experiments. R. C. Hanley, superintendent of the new Federated Fruit and Vegetable Marketing Association, explained the work of this organization.

Ivan Morris, president of the Terre Haute Vegetable Growers Association and W. S. Roebuck, Fort Wayne, vice-president of the state association spoke respectively on the work of the local associations and gardening in Northern Michigan. Mr. Roebuck also has an extensive truck farm in northern Michigan in addition to one at Fort Wayne.

The other short course students were given instruction in corn, livestock, poultry and dairy judging. Control of poultry parasites was discussed by C. R. Cleveland, who told how to get rid of lice, mites, etc. Other students learned how to splice hay ropes and tie various kinds of knots which are used about the farm.

The women also learned of the use of pressure, steam and fireless cookers. Dean Sarah Louis Arnold, of Boston, Mass., spoke on "The Daughter of the House." Miss Marguerite Malon spoke on nutrition and Mrs. Helen McKinley of the Purdue staff gave a demonstration of hints in home dressmaking. Coeds gave a fashion show.

President E. C. Elliott and Dean Arnold will be the speakers on tonight's program.

WEEKLY STORE NEWS

From ALLEN'S

Business for 1923 has started off with a rush and we are confident that a year of prosperity is in store for all who put forth their best efforts.

Did you ever buy an unknown brand of goods at a supposed to be bargain price and find that you had been stung? It is our policy to buy the best goods to be had. Our lines are standard and we sell at a standard price. We do not try to make our customers believe that we are selling them a fancy article for the price of a common grade of the same article.

Take canned peaches for example, we have peaches for 20c, 25c, 30c and 35c per can and all good value for the price but we do not try and make you believe that our 20c grade is of 30c quality.

We have a splendid line of prunes. The markets have advanced considerably since our stock was bought and we are selling larger sizes at our present prices than we would be able to if bought at today's market.

You will always find a splendid display of fruits and vegetables at our store and sold at fair and honest prices.

Loyalty Flour is proving to be the best flour that we have ever sold. For a flour that was never heard of in Rush county until about 30 days ago the business we have already established is remarkable. Single bags sell for $1.15. We will quote barrel prices on request.

A Nation's Tribute to Buick

There is an inspiring tribute to an industry in the universal recognition annually accorded the National Automobile Shows.

Thousands come to these exhibitions from every section of the continent and from foreign lands as well, and their advent is widely heralded the world over.

In the twenty-third National Automobile Show, just opening in New York, and later in Chicago, the nation is provided with a display of its chief means of personal transportation. This display is so complete and so magnificently set forth that all who come may easily carry away a perfect picture of the latest accomplishments in motor car building.

Year after year the national shows receive the homage of the entire country. Year after year they mark by their own increased magnitude and splendor, the increased growth of the automobile industry.

In occupying first place at both national shows for the fifth consecutive year, Buick continues the position in the industry awarded it by universal public opinion. D-15-24-NP

Some Things The Indiana Parent - Teachers Association Accomplished During 1921-22

The following accomplishments of the Indiana Parent-Teachers are outlined by Birney D. Farthing, county superintendent of schools:

1. It was through the efforts of the Association, that the local associations were induced to co-operate with the county and city superintendents in observing American Educational Week, December 4-10, 1921.

2. The home economics department of the association suggested and introduced plans for hot lunches in schools and assisted local associations in carrying forward such work. And it is to be noted further that many associations in the state, themselves, actually carried on this activity.

3. A plan was worked out for the purpose of stimulating more interest in simplified dress for school girls by the chairman of the department of home economics of the State Association. This plan itself was three-fold—it took into account the style show, correct dress contests, and sensible, as well as tactful, talks to mothers on the subject. The point of view was entirely constructive.

4. The Association's policy of indorsement—standing flat-footed against legalized censorship of moving pictures was continued. The Association has always worked in very close co-operation with the Indiana Indorsers of Photoplays. The organization has sent out carefully selected lists of pictures in monthly bulletins.

5. The Association has taken an active part in encouraging the use of milk by the children of the state, and especially those who attended the public schools. The organization co-operated with Purdue University in a "Dairy Products Campaign." The purpose of this movement was to increase interest in the use of milk and dairy products.

6. By co-operating with State School Attendance Officer, in urging that every local association appoint a committee to assist state and local attendance officers, very effective work was done in raising the per cent of attendance. And it was due to this system that many children were able to go ahead with their school work. Otherwise they would have been compelled to lose many days attendance or to leave school altogether.

7. During the month of June plans were made for a memorial to the late Hence Orme, former State President of the Association, and to whom the organization owes more for its present standing than any other person. It was decided to undertake this memorial in conjunction with that of the Riley Hospital for children. All associations were asked to do their part, to which all responded splendidly.

8. The Association assisted and was an instrument in securing legislation for better salaries for teachers, and at the same time took a stand for higher qualification standards for teachers.

9. The organization formulated a plan in conjunction with the Indiana State Teachers Association whereby better trained teachers of home economics courses, could be had. The home economics courses were extended to include the care of children, home nursing and home management, and in going a step further

Mothers Advise Their Daughters to Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Keep Them in Health

A Mother's Advice Prevents Operation

Corona, N. Y.—"I had a terrible pain in my left side and had to go to bed every so often. Doctors had told me I must be operated on, but I do not believe in the knife and would rather suffer than go through it. My mother also did not believe in it and she made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped her. It has also helped me for I am better and able to do all my work. I recommend your medicine and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. BUSCH, Jr., 11 S. Railroad Avenue, Corona, N. Y.

A Sickly Child

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would drop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day!' I gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now she is a healthy, happy, hearty, strong girl and weighs 120 pounds. She has no difficulty in doing her 'gym' work, and she works at home every night and morning, too. I am a mother who can certainly praise your medicine, and if it will be of any benefit you may use this letter as a reference."—Mrs. GEORGE E. WHITACRE, 621 W. Madison Ave., Mahoningtown, Pa.

Every girl wants to be healthy and strong, and every mother wants her daughter to do well in school and to enjoy herself at all times.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for young girls just entering womanhood. Mothers may depend upon it. Remember it is prepared from roots and herbs, contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they will work in a healthy and normal manner.

For nearly fifty years it has been used by women of all ages, and these women know its great value.

Let it help your daughter and yourself.

er by providing for better supervision of teachers of home economics.

10. The local associations were kept informed by the head office in regard to child labor conditions in the state. And pamphlets on the subjects published by the Industrial Board of Indiana, were distributed to local organizations through the association.

11. The work of the Boys' and Girls' Club Work Division of Purdue University was greatly assisted by associations over the state.

12. When the Interstate Conference on Education was held in Terre Haute in June under the auspices of the Indiana State Normal Schools, the association took a very active part in formulating some of future policies in regard to Educational activities.

13. In all of the district conferences of school men held throughout the state by the state Department of Public Instruction, a discussion of parent teacher work formed an important part of the program, and the State Superintendent took this opportunity to inform school officials what he thought of the policies and work of the State Association.

14. All local associations throughout the state joined hands with Indiana University in the "Health Education Campaign". In this work two nurses were sent over the state giving lectures and demonstrations on the work of the public health nurses. These nurses spent from two to three days in various communities talking to high school girls on the nursing proposition, and to mothers on the health and care of their children. They carried with them motion pictures and other exhibit material.

15. The association recommended and was behind the movement for the observance of "Thrifty Week", February 17-23, 1921.

16. The local associations in the various parts of the state made some very expensive studies and engaged in a great many important activities along the following lines. State laws governing schools, the school curriculum, school equipment, school buildings and grounds, medical inspection and health teaching in the schools, the school course, school lunches, open air classes, school attendance, child labor, recreation and physical education, photoplays, community centers, problems of the high school, reading children, children in need of special care.

17. A kindergarten is maintained at the State Fair in September by the state Association. Two experienced and qualified teachers were in charge of the children each and something over 250 children were taken care of while their mothers were at liberty to enjoy the fair.

18. A discussion of the parent-teacher associations is outlined in township and city in institute books as one of the general topics.

Gilbertine Tells How Her Aunt Died

CHAPTER X

Knowing my darling's innocence, I felt the insult shown her in my heart of hearts. Advancing, I met her at the foot of the stairs, and with one quick word seemed to restore her to herself.

She flushed and cast me an agonized look, which roused every instinct of chivalry within me. Advancing, I met her at the foot of the stairs, and with one quick word seemed to restore her to herself.

"Be patient!" I whispered. "Tomorrow they will all be around you again. Perhaps sooner. Go into the conservatory and wait."

She gave me a grateful pressure of the hand, while I bounded up stairs, determined that nothing should stop me from finding Gilbertine and giving her the letter with which Sinclair had entrusted me.

But this was more easily planned than accomplished. I at first found no one who could tell me to which room Miss Murray had retired. Then, when I did come across a stray housemaid and she, with an extraordinary stare, had pointed out the door, I found it quite impossible to gain any response from within, though I could hear a quick step moving restlessly to and fro and catch the sound of a smothered sob or low cry. The wretched girl would not heed me, though I told her who I was and that I had a letter from Mr. Sinclair in my hand. I felt obliged to draw off.

As if in answer to my exception, a figure appeared at this very moment, at the other end of the hall. It was Dutton, the butler, and in his hand he held a telegram. He stopped before the door I had so unavailingly assailed a few minutes before.

"A telegram, miss," he shouted, as no answer was made to his knock. Mr. Armstrong asked me to bring it to you. It is from the bishop and calls for an immediate reply."

There was a stir within. Meanwhile, I had sealed and thrust forth the letter I had held concealed in my breast pocket.

"Give her this, too," I signified, and pointed to the crack under the door.

He took the letter, laid the telegram on it, and pushed them both in. "I will wait for the answer," he shouted through the keyhole.

Withdrawing into a big dormer window, I waited to see if her door would open. I heard the lock turn, followed by the sound of a measured but hurried step. Dashing from my retreat, I reached the main hall in time to see Miss Murray disappear toward the staircase. I was about to follow when I perceived Dutton standing in the doorway she had just left, staring down at the floor with a puzzled look.

"She didn't pick up the letters," he cried, in amazement. "She just walked over them. What shall I do now? It's the strangest thing I ever saw."

"Take them to the little boudoir over the porch," I suggested. Mr. Sinclair is there and if she is not on her way to join him now she certainly will be soon."

Dutton caught up the letters and made for the stairs.

I made my way down and reached the lower step of the great staircase just as a half dozen girls, rushing from different quarters of the hall, surrounded Mr. Armstrong coming from his own little room.

He put them all back and, raising his voice said:

"It has been decided by Miss Murray that, under the circumstances, it will be wiser for her to postpone the celebration of her marriage to some time and place less fraught with mournful suggestions. A telegram has just been sent to the bishop to that effect."

As he finished, Gilbertine appeared behind him. It was a mixture of almost inexplicable emotions that I saw her thread her way among her friends, in a state of high feeling which made her blind to their outstretched hands. She was making for the stairs. Another door opened down the hall, another person had stepped upon the scene, and Miss Murray, as well as myself, recognized by the hush which at once fell upon every one present that something of still more startling import awaited us.

"Mr. Armstrong and ladies" said this stranger. I have made a few inquiries since I came here a short time ago, and I find that there is one young lady in the house who ought to be able to tell me better than any one else under what circumstances Mrs. Lansing breathed her last. I allude to her niece, who slept in the adjoining room. Is that young lady here? Her name if I remember rightly, is Camerden—Miss Dorothy Camerden."

I felt the dart of sudden fear—or was it hope—that Dorothy, hearing her name called, would leave the conservatory and proudly confront the speaker in face of this whole suspicious throng. But no Dorothy appeared. On the contrary, it was Gilbertine who turned, and with an air of authority for which no one was prepared, asked in tones vibrating with feeling:

"Has this gentleman the official right to question who was and who was not with my aunt when she died?"

Mr. Armstrong, made out to answer:

"This gentleman has every right, Miss Murray. He is the coroner of the town."

"Then," she vehemently rejoined, her pale cheeks breaking out into a scarlet flush, "do not summon Dorothy Camerden. She is not the witness you want I am. I am the one who uttered that scream; I am the one who saw our aunt die. Dorothy can not tell you what took place in her room and at her bedside, for Dorothy was not there; but I can."

Amazed, not as others were, at the assertion itself, but at the manner and publicity of the utterance, I contemplated this surprising girl in ever-increasing wonder. She looked at that moment as if nothing in the shape of fear, or even contumely, could touch her. She faced the astonishment of her best friends with absolute fearlessness, and added:

"I feel it my duty to speak thus publicly, because, by keeping silent so long, I have allowed a false impression to go about. Stunned with terror, I found it impossible to speak during that first shock. Besides, I was in a measure to blame for the catastrophe itself and lacked courage to own it. It was I who took the little crystal flask into my aunt's room. I had been fascinated by it from the first, fascinated enough to long to see it closer and to hold it in my hand. But I was ashamed of this fascination, ashamed I mean to have any one know that I could be moved by such a childish impulse; so, instead of taking the box itself, which might easily be missed, I simply abstracted the tiny vial. It was with a feeling of decided satisfaction I carried this coveted object about with me till I got to my room. Then, when the house was quiet and my room-mate asleep, I took it out and looked at it, and feeling an irresistible desire to share my amusement with my cousin, I stole to her room by means of the connecting balcony. But I found the room empty. Dorothy was not there; but as the light was burning high I ventured to step in. Instantly, I heard my aunt's voice. She was awake and wanted something. She had evidently called before, for her voice was sharp with impatience. When she heard me in Dorothy's room, she shouted again, and, as I have always been accustomed to obey her commands, I hastened to her side, with the little vial concealed in my hand. As she had expected to see Dorothy and not me, she rose up in unreasoning anger, asking where my cousin was and why I was not in bed. I attempted to answer her, but she would not listen to me and bade me turn up the gas which I did. Then she commanded me to rearrange her hair and make her more comfortable. This I could not do with the tiny flask still in my hand, so with a quick movement, I slid it behind some bottles standing on a table by the bedside. But to attempt to escape her eye was useless. She had seen my action and at once began to feel about for what I had attempted to hide from her. Coming in contact with the tiny flask, she seized it, and with a smile I shall never forget held it up between us. 'What's this?' she cried. 'I never saw a bottle as small as this before. What is in it and why were you so afraid of my seeing it?' As she spoke, she attempted to wrench out the stopper. Presently it yielded and I saw the vial open in her hand.

"Aghast with terror, I caught at the table beside me. Instantly, her look of curiosity changed to one of suspicion, and repeating, 'What's in it? What's in it?' she raised the flask to her nostrils, and when she found she could make out nothing from the smell, lowered it to her lips, with the intention, I suppose of determining its contents by tasting them. As I caught sight of this fatal action, and beheld the one drop, which Mr. Sinclair had said was enough to kill a man, slip from its hiding place of centuries into her open throat, I could neither speak nor move. But when, an instant later, I met the look which spread suddenly over her face—a look of horror and hatred, accusing horror and unspeakable hatred mingled with what I dimly felt must mean death—an agonized cry burst from my lips, after which panic stricken, I flew as if for life, back by the way I had come, to my own room. This was a great mistake. I should have remained with my aunt and boldly met the results of the tragedy, which my folly had brought about. So I allowed a wrong impression of the event to go about, for which act of cowardice I now ask the pardon of every one here, as I have already asked that of Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Armstrong."

FRANCE TO NOTIFY GERMANY OF PLANS

Only to Protect Engineers, Noti-

BELGIUM TAKES SAME STAND

Will Remain Encamped Around
Essen Ready to Intervene

troop trains left for the Ruhr border today.

Coblenz, Jan. 10.—Twenty train-
loads of French troops, including
machine gunners, passed through
during the night.

Dusseldorf, Jan. 10.—Fifty thou-
sand French troops are now concentrated in this vicinity, it was estimated today.

By WEBB MILLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Jan. 10.—France's formal
notification to Germany states that
troops are being sent to the Ruhr
valley only to protect engineers who
will go to the coal mines, it was officially announced today. The notice
was to be sent this afternoon.

The French forces will remain en-
camped around Essen and will not
intervene unless the engineers are
menaced.

Belgium, too, will notify Germany
to this effect.

Thursday troops will advance on Essen in an encircling movement
from north and south, according to
final plans of the French high command, it was learned today.

About 36,000 troops, including
eight regiments of infantry, six of
cavalry, with artillery, the most
modern tanks, airplanes, and arm-
ored cars, will take part in the
peaceful "capture" of the wealthy Ruhr city.

Allied engineers, including Belgian
and Italian, will accompany the
advance guard, it is understood and
will take up positions immediately
at the coal mines.

Just about four hours will be occupied in the advance; in that time
the horizon blue trap will have closed
in from two directions and Essen
will be under French occupation.

Premier Poincare has taken steps
to inform Germany of the French
plans. Staff officers in the occupied
area have communicated with Ger-

COMMUNITY MEETING HELD AT CARTHAGE

Tuesday Night

JUDGE SPARKS MADE TALK

A large crowd attended the community meeting held for the Ripley
township school patrons, Tuesday
night in the auditorium at Carthage.
Approximately 225 people attended
the meeting, and Judge Will M.
Sparks delivered the address of the
evening, which was highly appreciated by the audience.

The program which was given, opened with the song, "America", directed by Miss Hannan. James G.
Miller, county attendance officer,
spoke on "The Proper Relationship
of the Attendance Officer to the Parent." Miss Josephine Herkless
gave a reading and she was followed
by a talk by Miss Grace Ewing,
county Red Cross nurse on, "Health
and Hygiene".

A trio of Carthage high school
girls, the Misses Overman, Lineback
and Rawls, gave several musical
numbers, and they were followed by
an address, "Rural School Problems", by Birney D. Farthing, county school superintendent.

Judge Sparks' address concluded
the program, and it was said to be
one of the best community meetings
held in the county.

Several Matters Come Before Attention Of The Court, Including

FORGER GETS A SENTENCE

Earl Ives, Pleads Guilty, And Sentence Of 2 to 14 Years Is Sus-
pended During Good Conduct

Several matters in the circuit court
have been filed and business picked
up today, although no case was being tried. A few cases remain on
the docket for a hearing this week,
but the jury has not been called
until Monday.

A delayed record reveals that Earl
Ives, arrested in Conersville early
last week, was arraigned Saturday
and pleaded guilty to a charge of
forgery, receiving a fine of $10 and
a sentence of from 2 to 14 years,
which was suspended. He gave his
age as 22 years, and the sentence
at Jeffersonville was held up pending good behavior.

Two cases on file will go to other counties, as changes of venue has
been asked by petitions presented,
but no action taken.

One case, in which Edgar D. Johnson, et al., are plaintiffs, and Fred
I. Barrows, et al., are defendants,
the latter has filed a petition for a
change. The case originated in Fayette county and was sent here on a
change, and the petition filed today
will be the second change, if it is
granted. The plaintiff secured the
first change. The case is a complaint on a contract.

In the case of Jetho C. Meek and
Alva M. Reed against George M.
Thompson, et al., a complaint on a
note, the plaintiff has filed a motion
for a change of venue from the county.

Judge Fred Gause of Newcastle,
was here Tuesday afternoon sitting
as a special judge in the case for
which he was recently appointed, and
in which John H. Zeigler is plaintiff and Sylvester Kirkpatrick and Howard Ewbank are defendants, the
action being for an injunction.

The special judge heard evidence
on several demurrers and matters
pertaining to the case, but the evidence in the case proper was not
presented for a hearing at this time.

This morning Judge Sparks heard
the case of Jada Aspay against Clyde Kitchin, in which the plaintiff was awarded judgment amount-
ing to $1,897.95 and costs on his
complaint on a note. The plain-
tiff dismissed the action against the
two other defendants, Samuel Col-
ter and Harry Colter.

Annual Meeting With State Board
of Tax Commissioners Will be

IS REGARDED AS IMPORTANT

Newly Elected Township Assessors
are Urged by County Assessor
to Attend State Meeting

Township assessors of Rush county, who with few exceptions are now
in the office and are not familiar
with the duties of the office, are
urged in letters addressed to them
by Earl F. Priest, county assessor,
to attend the twenty-second annual
conference of the state board of tax
commissioners and county assessors,
which will be held Tuesday, Wednes-
and 18.

A program for the conference has
just been received by Mr. Priest.
He says that the members of the
state board expect the coming conference to be the best one in the history of such events.

Practically all of the county assessor's of the state attend this annual conference, because it is here
that plans are made for the annual
spring assessment of property for
taxation purposes, and all matters
relating to taxation are discussed.

Township assessors are especially
urged to attend this year, because
the vast majority of them took office
the first of the year and have had no
experience in valuing property for
taxation purposes. Mr. Priest believes that the knowledge that they
will gain at the conference will be
of immense value to them in the
spring when they begin to assess
property.

The conference will open at ten
o'clock Tuesday morning, January
16, and will be called to order by
Will Hough, a member of the state
commission. The opening address
will be made by Chairman Brown and
there will be a short address by Governor Warren T. McCray. The afternoon session will open at 1:30 with
an address by Commissioner Hough
on the subject, "Problems of Taxation in This and Other States". The discussion of the subject will be followed with an address by Schuyler
C. Mower, state inheritance tax investigator, on the "Inheritance
Tax". After a discussion of this subject, the conference will adjourn for
the day and committees will meet.

The Wednesday morning session
will open at 9 o'clock with a discussion of "The Duties of Assess-
ing Officers" by Commissioner Zoer-
cher. The response will be made by Lilburn, Greene county assessor. The remainder of the morning will be devoted to a round table discussion.

"Taxation" will be the subject of
an address by Chairman Brown at
the opening of the afternoon session
at 1:30. "Tax Collections" will be
the subject of an address by R. B.
Bradford, Lake county treasurer.

OPPOSED TO BOTH MEASURES

Noble Farmers Against Gas Tax

The Noble Township Farmers' association held its regular monthly
session Tuesday night at the New Salem school building. Discussions
were held concerning the proposed legislation changing the unit of the
school system from township to
line.

By a rising vote it was shown
that a substantial majority was opposed to both. This being the first meeting of the calendar year, the
following officers, all of whom
served last year, were re-elected for
the ensuing year: President, Willard
P. King; vice-president, Walter Nor-
ris; secretary-treasurer, Theodore F.
Holden; township directors, Wilbur
E. Logan, Paul P. Morris, A. Line
Jinks; Charles L. Newhouse and De-
Alma Hartman; county director,
George Smith.

MANY VIOLATORS CITED LAST YEAR

Total of 302 Criminal Cases Were
Filed in Three Courts in Rushville
In 1922

27 WERE SENT TO PRISON

Circuit Court Had 151 Cases, Justice
Court 115, and Only 36 in Police
Court

Three courts in Rushville handling
criminal cases, had a combined total of 302 cases placed on file during 1922, according to a summary of
the year's business just completed,
and of this number, 27 persons were
given sentences in the state institutions.

The three courts are police court,
presided over by Mayor Walter Thom-
as, justice of peace court, by J. P.
Stech and the circuit court by Judge
Will M. Sparks.

In the circuit court during the
year there were 151 cases filed, 115
in Justice Stech's court and 36 in
the police court. The latter is way
below the docket for most cities the size of Rushville, which is due either to one of two things—lack of enforcement of law, or the absence of
law violators.

In the circuit court one prisoner
drew a life sentence and six individuals were given suspended sentences.
These suspensions were granted to
two liquor law violators, and in bad
checks and wife desertion cases, and
in one case for assault and battery
with intent to kill.

Of the number sentenced, six went
to the state prison at Michigan City,
eight to the reformatory, 12 to the
penal farm, one to jail and one to
the asylum. One liquor case in police court, also caused the offender to be sent to the state farm.

The year's docket in the circuit
court had only one murder case listed, and the defendant pleaded guilty
and received a life sentence.

In justice Stech's court, where 115 affidavits were filed during the
year, the crimes were of many kinds,
embracing smaller cases, as well as
larger cases. A total of 13 defendants accused of issuing bad checks,
pleaded guilty and are out on good
behavior with their fine of $100
withheld.

In police court the 36 cases filed
during the year were for intoxication, and smaller offenses, and the 36 affidavits involved 42 people, several of whom were not prosecuted or
were acquitted.

PASSENGER SERVICE IS TO BE CURTAILED

One Train Each Way to be Removed
by Pennsylvania and Sunday
Service Discontinued

ORDER EFFECTIVE SUNDAY

Curtailement of passenger service
on all branches of the Pennsylvania
railroad will affect the line passing
through Rushville, according to an
announcement received here today,
in which it is stated two passenger
trains will be taken off, and the Sunday train service will be discontinued.

The trains which will be taken off
are numbers 516, southbound, arriving in Rushville at 4:45 in the
afternoon, and number 517, north-
bound at 11:45 in the morning. Both
trains carry mail, and serve all
points along the line. These trains
have been operated for years, running daily except Sunday.

The other trains, one in each direction, going south at 7:20 in the
morning and north at 6:35 at night,
will be operated as usual, excepting
on Sunday. The changes will be in effect Sunday.

The reason assigned for the cur-
tailment of service is said to be due
to automobiles transportation and
good roads, which has caused steam
road business to drop. The smaller
towns in the county and along the
line will be greatly handicapped under the new schedule.

MYSTIC IS REOPENED TODAY

To Continue Under Management of
Mrs. Swift, Whose Husband Died

The Mystic theatre, which has
been closed for a week on account
of the death of the owner, B. F.
Swift, reopened today and will be managed by Mrs. Swift, who has returned from Dayton, Ohio, where
Mr. Swift was buried. The program
for today is Shirley Mason in "Shirley of the Cereus" and a Matt and Jeff comic.

Some wrong impressions were
created by the reproduction recently
of an advertisement inserted in a
New York film paper by Tom J.
Geraghty, former Rushville man, in
which he extended Christmas and
New Year's greetings, and comment-
ing on the pictures he had directed,

Gen Azagietian Asserts Unspeakable
Turk Has Made Armenians Race
Of Refugees And Orphans

ADDRESSES TWO LUNCH CLUBS

Armenian Diplomat Makes Dramatic
Plea For United Front Against
Enemy Of Christianity

Forsaken when their services were
no longer needed, the Armenians
have become a race of refugees and orphans, General M. N. Azagietian, Armenian soldier, diplomat and scholar, asserted before a joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs
at the Social club today noon.

Ministers of the city were special
guests, together with L. Link, county
chairman of Near East Relief, which
will make a special appeal next
month for funds for Armenian orphans. Churches of the city will assist in the campaign.

Dr. J. B. Kinsinger, president of
the Kiwanis club, presided at the
joint meeting and introduced Mr.
Link, who in turn introduced Gen.
Azagietian.

The Armenian officer, recounted
briefly the deeds of valor performed
by the Armenians during the world
war—Armenians who fought in every
allied army to help defeat the Germans and the Turks. He recalled
how the Armenians fought the Turks
with their backs against the wall for
seven months on the banks of the Caspian Sea to prevent the opponents of the allies from gaining control of a vast supply of petroleum,
without which the Germans could not
win the war.

How the Armenians held out
against superior odds and defeated
the Turkish army, the speaker said,
is a matter of history and for their
deed they were praised not alone in Paris, London and Washington, but
also by General Von Ludendorff Ger-
man general, who stated in a recent
book that the Germans were forced
to ask for an armistice because they
could not obtain a sufficient supply

TO TIGHTEN BANDS ON MARRIAGE LAWS

Bill Introduced in Legislature Provides Posting of Marriage Notice
2 Weeks Before Ceremony

Action on Bills to Kill Primary Law
Withheld as Protests Continue
to Come to Legislators

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10—A bill
providing for stricter marriage and
divorce laws in Indiana was introduced in the legislature today by Miss Elizabeth Rainey of Indianapolis, only woman member of the house
of representatives.

Posting of notices of marriage
not less than two weeks prior to the
time set for the ceremony will be required of county clerk under the
measure. The bill was referred to
the committee on public morals.

Abolishment of the state purchasing agent was provided in a bill introduced by Representative Lew S.
Glore of Elkhart. This bill if passed
would mean the sacrifice of $6,000
a year salary now going to Fred
Robison, campaign manager for Governor McCray.

Representative Albert Clapp of Marysville presented a bill providing
for abolishment of the Indiana motor
police force and restoring the money
spent in its maintenance to the
highway commission fund.

Thirty days imprisonment for the
first offense of bootleggers and a
fine of $100 to $500 was provided in
a bill introduced by Senator Oliver
E. Dunn. Another measure in the
senate would abolish the engineers'
registration board. It was presented
by Senator Hays.

Opponents of the primary election
law considering the repeal bills
pending before the legislature poised
their headman's axe today as they
received word from back home.

Like the king's executioner in
the days of old who spared men's
lives on last minute reprieves, the
elections committees in both senate
and house decided to delay action
until Friday or possibly Monday on
two bills introduced yesterday to repeal the primary law.

The trend among all the law makers turned decidedly against repeal
as the first mail this morning brought

"SUPREME SUMMONS" IS MINISTER'S TOPIC

Splendid Audience Hears The Rev.
E. Richard Edwards at Main
Street Christian Church

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE FRIDAY

A splendid audience heard a very
tender and touching sermon Tuesday
evening by the Rev. E. Richard Edwards at the Main Street Christian
church. It was based on John, 11:28
the message of Martha to her sister
Mary, "The Master is come and cal-
leth for thee." So Christ today
through his word and His ministry
is calling to men and women to enter
into his service and receive the
blessings he has to bestow, the
speaker said.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards is a "live
wire" full of fire and fervor and is
attracting fine audiences and the attention of a large number of people
both in and outside of the church.

Tonight he will speak on "What Is
the Gospel? Why It's Power?" On Friday evening he will have a sermon of special interest to the young
people of the city on "The Trophy Rooms of the Soul." A special invitation is extended to the school boys
and girls of the city to attend this
service and listen to this message.

At the service last night Mrs.
Will McVay of Richmond gave a
beautiful and pleasing solo. At to-
night's service Mrs. L. C. Overdorf
and Miss Florene Gronier will sing a duet. The song service begins at 7:30 and the sermon at 8 o'clock.

CALLS ON WOMEN TO RALLY BEHIND PRIMARY

Dr. Amelia R. Keller Of Indianapolis Says Their Rights Will Be Jeopardized

IF THE LAW IS REPEALED

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—A battle cry for women of Indiana to rally behind the primary election law and prevent its repeal was sounded today by Dr. Amelia R. Keller, political leader and club woman.

"Everyone knows what happens to women in political conventions," Dr. Keller said. "Some men votes an entire delegation and the women are not even consulted."

"In the last-state convention, Marion county had more than 200 delegates, including a few women. Some body voted the entire delegation when there were only about 150 delegates present and did not take the trouble to consult the women delegates—or most of the men for that matter."

Dr. Keller asked the women to assist in the defense of the primary before the legislature where two bills are pending providing for its repeal. Without the primary, the women are unable to express themselves on a choice of party candidates, she said.

"One of the things I can't understand is why the republican organization is against the primary when they know more than seventy-five per cent. of the people are for it."

"They are not bound to repeal the primary. If they don't know how the people feel, they should give them a chance to express themselves."

Big Picture Here Three Days

The farm yards of California were combed for animals to appear in the rural scenes of "The Old Homestead" which come to the Princess today, Thursday and Friday. It is a Paramount picture directed by James Cruz and is said to be a greatly elaborate version of the famous Denman Thompson stage classic.

Puppies, grown dogs, pigs, goats, horses, cows, chickens, ducks, cats, turkeys, kittens — almost every variety of the barnyard familiars, will be seen in the realistic scenes depicting the village of Ganzey, N. H. and the homestead itself.

The role of Uncle Josh is played by Theodore Roberts with his usual skill. George Fawcett, another great character actor is ably played by well T. Roy Barnes is the easygoing tramp, Harry Jack. Fritz Ridgway plays Ann and Reuben is portrayed by Harrison Ford, while other characters are ably played by well known actors.

Healing Cream Stops Catarrh

Clogged Air Passages Open at Once — Nose and Throat Clear

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure. —Advertisement.

bassador at Berlin has talked with representatives of the Cuno government. The Germans will be clearly informed as to each contemplated move, so they may co-operate and have the occupation go smoothly.

As soon as France's plans have been carried out, Poincare will announce them, probably through a speech to the chamber.

It was learned that the French engineers, upon arrival at Essen will commence immediately to partition Germany's coal production from this region. The Germans will be permitted the amount needed internally and the surplus will be divided between France and the allies in accordance with the Versailles treaty.

By CARL D. GROAT
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Essen, Jan. 10.—Hemmed in on the west by French cavalry, infantry artillery, tanks and airplanes, all ready to move at a word of command from Paris, Essen, first object of France's punitive occupation plans was a city of strained nerves today.

The population is tense but reserved. The uncertainty as to when the French troops will enter the city is causing the most worry. Hotel guests were notified they might have to give up their rooms at any time.

The Poles are at Kettwig, a few miles from here. Troop trains are constantly arriving. They are reported to be all white with exception of a few Animites. Many are quartered with the inhabitants.

The first act of the local populace to frustrate the contemplated invasion occurred overnight. Knowing the French were about to come in and start their customs barriers between the Ruhr valley coal fields and Germany proper, the coal syndicate (a semi-private, a semi-governmental coal distributing agency) dissolved its headquarters here and took all its papers and files to Hamburg.

It is claimed that the French will have difficulty with operating mines here without the syndicate's apparatus.

CLUB AND ROB WOMAN

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Police today were searching for two youthful bandits who clubbed and robbed Mrs. John Schmidt, prominent Chicago society woman, of $10,000 in money and jewels as she entered her home here.

Two months ago burglars entered the Schmidt home and obtained $8,000 loot.

Chicago —Mrs. Harry Herr reported to police her daughter had been kidnapped. "Shes not kidnapped—just married" Charles Heiser, the new husband told authorities.

Denver's Famous Juvenile Judge Says Marriage Fails as Social Institution

By ALICE ROHE
New York, Jan. 10.—"Marriage is (Copyright, 1923, by United Press) a failure. As a social institution it has failed miserably."

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Denver's famous juvenile court jurist waved a sheaf of statistics which had just reached him as he made this startling statement today in an exclusive interview.

"We have got to face the issue and how many people are really thinking and talking about this social problem?" he said.

Judge Lindsey, who is now in New York on a lecture tour had just received data concerning an investigation he is making.

"In the year ending Dec 15, there were three thousand marriage licenses granted in Denver and 1,500 divorce suits filed. How many separations are never filed? I'd say as many as divorces.

"In fact, from my investigation, I learn that non-support and separation cases add another 1,500 to the 1922 record. You can see that means one separation for every marriage. Actually there were fifty more divorces applied in 1922 than in 1921 and six hundred fewer marriages solemnized.

"Eliminating these latest figures concerning separation and dealing solely with divorce suits filed the number for Denver in 1922 is 1,542 as compared with 1,497 in 1921. The total of marriage licenses of 1922 is 3,008 as compared with 3,628 in 1921. In the case of the divorces filed the increase in 45, and marriages decreased 618.

"In Chicago last year as reports show me, there were 39,000 marriage licenses granted, mostly to young people, and 13,000 divorce decrees were signed. These signed decrees do not represent all that were applied for.

"This means that regard for accepted conventions is undergoing a great change.

"It doesn't mean that society is becoming decadent. But it means that society must be psycho-analyzed. Just as we recognize the effect of suppressed desires and instincts in an individual so we must apply the same analysis to social life. We must realize the fact that we are facing a terrible conflict between instincts. Social life today is a matter of artificial restraints. Instead it should be regulated by natural restraints.

"We are satisfied with laws. They do not always bring a satisfactory remedy. I've placed 52 new laws on the Colorado statutes and I believe that the law of the heart is more important than the law of the statutes.

"I think that 75 per cent of men are not true to their wives. I do not say these are chronic cases—mere lapses—frequently. They capitulate to instinct. And this adds to the recognition of the failure of artificially imposed conventions.

"We know that divorce would not be so overwhelming in the western states if marriage institutions were a success. And what is true of western cities is true of all cities.

"When an institution which is conventionally right created a thing that is absolutely wrong you can't escape the re-action.

"Divorce and separation are absolutely necessary until the conditions that cause them are corrected. In the whole problem facing us of changing conventions my main interest lies in the child. Recognition of the child of the unmarried mother is the first thing of importance."

"Then you do not admit the expressed fear that such recognition leads to promiscuity and convention-branded in morality?" I asked.

"But", he exclaimed, "promiscuity and convention-branded immorality are better than murder and is the result of lack of recognition of the child's right to be born of unmarried mothers.

"We can never raise the standards of morality by checking divorce. The church has tried but has failed to save the married state by this method. It will never do it.

"We've got to recognize the fact that we are face to face with one of the greatest social problems in modern times in this statistically proved failure of marriage. Understand, I believe in the marriage state but as it is today we cannot deny that there is something wrong. We simply have to psycho-analyze our social life and our conventions."

Bill Introduced To Cut Off Main Source Of Commission's Revenue

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—An attempt to abolish the state highway commission was seen in a bill introduced by Senator Shirley, democrat of Ft. Wayne, seeking to take the inheritance tax money and the funds derived from registration of motor vehicles and examination of chauffeurs away from the highway body.

This would restore the highway construction system of Indiana to the status in which it was before the commission existed and in effect would abolish the commission by cutting off its main source of revenue.

The bill would leave only the general tax of three cents and a fraction for the support of the commission and the construction of highways. The registration and examination fees would be returned to the counties from which they came.

Plans for rushing the repeal bills through both houses were quickly abandoned when supporters of the measures learned the lay of the land. Although it has been charged that efforts were made to "stack" the elections committees with members opposed to the primary, the election committee in neither house could agree upon an unanimous report favoring the bills.

It was possible the bill may never go to a vote in senate, but may come up for approval or rejection in the house. Senator Clem Richards of Terre Haute, caucus chairman, was among those opposing a committee report which would recommend passage.

Friends of the primary were organizing their forces and preparing to put up a hard fight against repeal. Ed Toner, one of the most active friends of the primary established headquarters in a hotel and his place became headquarters for his followers.

Toner said he did not believe the republican organization even with approval of democratic leaders could force passage of the bill.

"The men who came to this legislature, came because they were elected at primaries," Toner said.

Is it reasonable to believe they will bite the hands that fed them?

"If the enemies of the primaries can emasculate it now by taking away the state-wide features, the next step would be to make it an optional matter with parties and in varying units—party control—and that would be the end of the primary. The women of the state would be disfranchised and the whole game would go back to politicians."

of petroleum to continue the conflict.

"We were praised for our support of the allied cause," the general continued, "but when we were no longer needed, the allies forgot us. The Turk arose from the war battered and beaten, knowing not which way to turn. But ere long he realized that the British and French were bickering among themselves and that he could restore himself to his former power.

Gen. Azgapatian recalled the steps by which the Turk had attained his present position because he is a master at the game of bluff, which he is playing with a master hand at Lauzanne, the speaker said, asserting that so long as the British and French were not of the same opinion, the Turk could bluster and bluff and refuse to sign anything.

Gen. Azgapatian charged that Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Rome, who is acting as American observer at Lauzanne, it not versed in the arts of diplomacy and that his two American advisors are pro-Turk.

He asked how long this condition would be permitted to exist; how long a Christian nation would stand by and permit the unspeakable Turk to dominate the affairs of the Near East and continue its campaign of eradication against the first Christians.

"But we have nothing except the highest regard and the deepest sense of obligation to the great American people," Gen. Azgapatian continued, commenting on the generous response from America to appeals for help. "No one but big, generous-hearted Americans could give so nobly as you have given. We believe that you will be rewarded for your splendid generosity."

Gen. Azgapatian, in closing, described the Armenian orphanages that are being supported by the Near East Relief— orphanages where the American flag flies and where young Armenians are being given an American education, taught ideals and respect for the American flag.

MAY DRAIN NINE LAKES

Department Of Conservation Asked To Investigate Project

Kendallville, Ind., Jan. 10.—The Indiana department of conservation will be asked to investigate the feasibility of draining nine lakes in northeastern Indiana, according to a petition drawn up here today.

The petition would construct a ditch in Noble county to take off water.

The ditch would effect lakes Bear, High Bristol, Port Mitchell, Muri, Muncie, Sand, and Bean.

A storm of protest has been entered against the proposal by Noble county citizens. A hearing will be held in Albion, January 22.

The construction of such a ditch, it is claimed would mean the disappearance of these lakes to convert a few acres of marshes into farmland. The proposed ditch is said to interest 719 persons, but only twenty-two persons have signed the ditch petition.

President States New Secretary Of Interior Will Be From West

Washington, Jan. 10.—President Harding has assured leading members of congress that the new secretary of the interior to succeed Albert Fall, who retires March 4, will be a man from the territory west of the Missouri river.

This eliminates the possibility of the appointment of Senator New, Indiana, or Carmi Thompson, both of whom have been prominently mentioned. It narrows the race down to Senator Poindexter and Representative Mondell, both of whom were defeated in the last election, and Joseph, Dixon, former Bull Moose leader of Montana.

Pension Grab Veto

President Harding was sound in his reasoning when he vetoed the recently passed pension bill which would grant pensions to women who had married veterans of the Civil War 60 years after the war closed. It is common knowledge that many women have married veterans in recent years in the hope of getting lifetime pensions upon the deaths of their husbands. If the U. S. treasury had no bottom, or if the government had already made full and adequate provision for all its needy and deserving veterans, it might be permissible to provide a pension for all widows of veterans, however recently they may have married. But government funds are limited in amount and there are many thousands who are far more deserving of aid than are the young widows of old men.

The government should be just before it is generous. No one will question for a moment, and President Harding does not, the fitness of a liberal provision for veterans of the Civil War and widows of those veterans who either shared the shocks and sorrows of the war or who have been for a considerable portion of their lives the helpmates of the veterans. It would be utterly unfair to class as adventuresses all women who have in recent years married old veterans, and there is no need to do so. Whether they are adventuresses or not, they have no more claim upon the government than other women who have married old men in recent years. President Harding will be misrepresented as heartless in his attitude toward widows of Civil War Veterans. His act in vetoing the bill does not relate to women who were the wives of veterans over a considerable period of time. The bill he vetoed proposed to grant pensions to widows who have no real claim upon the government.

Coue's Cure

Emil Coue, the auto-suggestion apostle from Nancy, is here to expound his theories of mental cure for curable diseases. A self-educated man who claims to have lost his rheumatic pains just two years ago by the same treatment he wishes others to adopt, the progress of his four will be watched with interest throughout the country.

Like Joan of Arc who suddenly became aware of almost super-natural powers, Coue's transmogrification from Nancy druggist and gardener to apostle of cure by mental concentration was swift and complete. Two years ago he was placidly engaged in a small druggist's business in his home in France, dividing his time between the drug business, a gardener of flowers and the latest cures for rheumatism. Almost overnight he became a figure of worldwide repute.

Oddly enough, Coue got his idea for the cult from an American pamphlet that cost him exactly 30 francs. The pamphlet was in the nature of a testimonial from a Rochester, N. Y., man who became miraculously cured through the powers of auto-suggestion. In spite of scoffing friends, Coue says he adopted the treatment and was cured.

Coue's apparent willingness to work hand in hand with the medical profession should go far toward obviating any opposition that might arise. But as his four progresses, the strength of Coue's doctrines will be subjected to a severe test.

Uniform Warnings

A concerted effort, sponsored by various associations of automobilists, is afoot to unify the existing systems of road signs. It is a commendable movement and should be accorded wide support.

In almost every state of the union different types of warnings for intersection roads, railroad crossings, curves, etc., are displayed. The plan under consideration would standardize all this so that a railroad crossing in the east would be marked in exactly the same manner as a railroad crossing in the west. The need for the reform is obvious. It should be encouraged.

Former Senator From Huntington
and Allow Useless Laws

SHOULD SMOTHER BAD ONES

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10—Oliver Kline, former state senator from Huntington county, appealed to the people of Indiana today to give more attention to the activities of the state legislature.

"People sit idly by and see an obnoxious bill enacted into law and then they let up a howl that can be heard from one side of the state to the other," Kline said. "They should watch the bills before they become laws and bring pressure to bear upon their senators and representatives in the legislature to smother the bad ones and approve the good ones."

"I have seen this plan worked out: A farmers organization up my way took up every bill that affected them discussed it, cast a vote on it and sent the result to their representatives in the legislature."

"If other organizations and clubs and societies would do this, the law makers would soon learn the attitude of their constituents and of the people generally toward pending legislation."

Increase Your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength!

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are under weight? Simply because to be under weight often proves

low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is so obvious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1823, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop seeing a calamity-looking. You inspire confidence. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them. Ladies and gentlemen, a peppy, bony face doesn't make you look very important or pretty, does it? Take S. S. S. It contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

Crawfordsville High School Basketball Team, Once State Champs, Are Again Going Good

Back in 1911 They Captured First Title, But Since War Have Been on Down Grade Until Now

By R. L. HESLER
(Written for United Press)

Crawfordsville, Ind., Jan. 10.—After a lapse of a few years, during which time the Crawfordsville high school team played a minor role in state athletics, the C. H. S. squad of 1923 gives every promise of returning basketball here to its proper place in Hoosier ranks.

With a squad composed entirely of underclassmen, Coach "Brandy" C. Freeman, former Wabash college star, had built a smooth running machine. If the Crawfordsville team were to enter the sectional tourney at time it would carry off first honors easily.

Up until the great war the locals possessed one of the most feared aggregations in Indiana. State basketball tournaments were begun in 1911 and it fell to Crawfordsville to win the first classic.

While C. H. S. has not finished ahead of the field since that year, they have always been in the thick of the fight and three times went into the championship finals. On two other occasions they were semi-finalists.

During the war period athletics reached their lowest plane and since then the teams have been out of the contending class. Freeman who had charge in "the good old days" was returned to the staff last season and by careful coaching has constructed another strong five.

The team this year is one of the smallest that ever wore the gold and blue uniform, but a remarkable fighting spirit has successfully carried it through to a number of fine victories. Jefferson of Lafayette fell before Crawfordsville recently and when it is known that Jefferson in turn defeated Franklin, 1922 state champions, the class of the local five can be determined.

Freeman's five depends on its fight and speed to win games. With a steady improvement being shown each week, Crawfordsville can be expected to be a contender for the high honors this season.

To Build Tennis Stadium

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 10.—Tennis has grown to such a degree of popularity in this country that the United States Lawn Tennis Association is planning to finance the erection of a $500,000 stadium at Forest Hills, N. Y.

The need of more room was shown last year at the Davis Cup challenge round and that the men's singles championship in Philadelphia.

While it is praiseworthy to have in this country something to compare with the great stadium at Wimbledon, England, perhaps it is not just to other sections of the country to select Forest Hills as the site.

It is true that no other section of the country could support such a project but it is true also that other sections of the country are entitled to see some of the classics and if a half million dollars are invested in the Forest Hills project, all the classics will go there.

Competition in practically all of the men's classes are great drawing cards, but interest in the women players has slumped, if attendance can be taken as an indication.

The women's championships at Forest Hills last year drew hardly a handful. The lack of interest was due perhaps to the justified feeling that there would be nothing to the tournament but Mrs. Molla Mallory, the champion, as one said:

To stimulate interest in the women players some foreign talent will have to be imported. It is understood that the committee will invite Miss Kathleen McKane, the British girl star, to compete.

Miss Suzanne Lenglen, the world's champion, may also be an entry. Her excuse last year was that she would never visit the United States as long as Julian S. Myrick headed the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Myrick is retiring now, so she may change her mind.

The French star may have another reason for coming back to vindicate herself.

Mrs. Mallory, to continue the feud between them, is going back to Europe again next summer and she may wind up in the British championships again with Suzanne.

If Suzanne should happen to beat her again, she would have more inducement to come over and do it again in front of the American fans.

What will happen to Bill Tilden when he goes to play with a stump of a finger on his racket hand, of course, is the biggest thing of interest in the coming season.

Tilden, apparently, is not so optimistic about his chances but when he says he feels that he may not finish within the first ten next season

he is following his usual tendency not to be boastful or vain about his ability.

If Tilden should happen to be seriously handicapped by the loss of his finger, slumping interest in the Davis Cup matches may be boosted. Australia, for one, has taken the stand that it is unwise for their association to pay a huge amount of money to send a team to the United States to lose.

They, and several other nations, including the British and the Japanese, take the stand that as long as Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston are in their prime, they are unbeatable.

Hittin' 'em passed the first night without any mishaps.

Shelbyville is still shouting over their victory with Franklin. They expect to add two more games to their credit this week, when they play Greencastle Friday and Pendleton on Saturday—both games away from home.

To market, to market,
To find a state champ
Home again; home again,
Trampety, tramp;
Vincennes or Bloomington,
Bedford or Jefferson,
We give it up
So help us out.

Don't Forget Elwood

Our red-headed assistant is peeved because Elwood isn't being figured in this state dope. They are listed on the bottom round of the big ten in Indiana—but so was Rushville last year.

The Arlington Athletic Club pulled the strings of victory last night, defeating Greensburg 34 to 22.

ALMOST A TRACK MEET

The Methodist team didn't have any show last night with the St. Mary's team, being defeated 49 to 12. Keating and Joyce scored 7 goals each for the winners.

Hittin' 'em hopes that Columbus has that "revenge stuff" out of their system by Friday night.

Speakin' of revenge reminds us that last year after Rushville cleaned up on every team and had 24 straight games to their credit at one time, every team we meet this year is out for revenge—and they usually get it.

Garfield of Terre Haute comes to the front with information that they are going to fight again this year, and be runners up in the state. If they do, we will take our hats off to 'em.

Vincennes, with the best record of any team in the state, playing 45 games in two years and only losing one, is again heralded as possible state timber. The lone game they lost was in the state tourney last year.

Ten high school teams, all of this county, excepting our close neighbor Fairview, will gather here February 3 for an invitational tourney. Since Manilla knocked off Milroy last week, it has put another hat in the ring in this county, and puts Manilla on the top round of the ladder. Both of 'em will be here.

SO WILL JOHN GERAGHTY'S TEAM

Raleigh has a scrappy team this year, and will give anyone in the county a good tussle. Watch their smoke Friday when Milton plays there.

Newbold, forward on the Rushville team, is a comer, and with a little more confidence in himself, he will play rings around the rest of the basket shooters. He showed his Irish brothers up at Indianapolis,

how they played basketball at the St. Mary's school here.

If there is anything in this Cove stuff about "day by day, in every way, getting better and better," we might try it on our basketball team.

ARLINGTON A. C.'S ADD ANOTHER HIDE

CURTAIN RAISER OVERTIME

The Arlington Athletic Club added another basketball game to their credit when they took the Y. M. C. A. team of Greensburg into camp, 34 to 22, Tuesday evening at the Arlington gymnasium.

The Greensburg team was handicapped on account of the absence of the Marlow brothers, who were out of the game on account of sickness. The Y team started very fast and at one time had the score 11 to 4 in their favor but the Arlington team soon got together and broke Greensburg's passing game and were soon out in front, the lead which they obtained throughout the remainder of the game. The first half ended 14 to 12 in favor of the A. C.'s.

Shook as usual was the leading point-getter for the winners, followed closely by Gardner. Palmer showed best for Greensburg.

The Junior A. C.'s had the fight of their life when they won from the Webb Independent team in an overtime game, 38 to 36. The next home game for the A. C.'s will be Thursday, January 18 when Cumberland plays at Arlington.

ST. MARY'S MIDGETS WIN

Defeat Methodist Church Team Tuesday Night, 49 to 12

The St. Mary's Midgets defeated the Methodist church team Tuesday night at the St. Mary's gymnasium, by the score of 49 to 12. In the curtain raiser the St. Mary's grade team also defeated a grade team from the public schools, in a close game, 15 to 14.

The line-up and summary of the big game, is as follows: St. Mary's: Cauley and R. O'Neil, forwards; C. O'Neil, center; Jones and Mullins, guards; Methodist: Tabor and Empty, forwards; Moore, center; Smith and Martz, guards; substitutions, St. Mary's, Keating and Joyce, Methodist, Fairbanks, Rudolph Chaplin. Field goals, Cauley 3, R. O'Neil 2, C. O'Neil, Jones 2, Mullins 2, Keating 7, Joyce 7; Tabor 2, Empty, Moore. Foul goals, Cauley, Empty 4. Score first half, 22 to 3.

Jake Schaffer Ahead of French Champion in Billiard Contest

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Jake Schaffer of San Francisco today held a commanding lead over Roger Conti, French billiard champion in their match here to determine who will meet Willie Hoppe for the world's title.

Schaffer with an unfinished run of 160 went out in the second block of the three block match with a lead of 1,000 to 650. Schaffer last night ticked off his 500 points while Conti was struggling to mark up 313.

Both players resorted to a defensive game throughout most of the evening and this resulted in lower averages. Conti got away to a good start but failed to hold the pace.

FRANKLIN TRIMS WABASH CHAMPS

WIN BY FOUR POINT MARGIN

Fast Franklin Forwards Make 13 of 20 Points Scored by Baptists—Wabash Weak at Center

Crawfordsville, Ind., Jan. 10.—The Franklin college quintet, playing a furious game of basketball, defeated the Little Giants here Tuesday night, 20 to 16, in one of the fastest games ever seen on the local floor. The score at the end of the half stood 9 to 7 in favor of the Baptists.

With the score tied at 16 and only four minutes to play, B. Friddle pulled the contest out of the fire and made victory certain with two long shots from the center of the floor. The Baptist back guard was traveling at such a rapid rate when he made one of the baskets, that he fell into the bleachers before being able to stop.

The Wabash center position was weak. Peare, Thorne and Thompson were tried in an attempt to stop the driving attack of the Franklin offense. For the Scarlet, Adam, Goldsberry and Grater were the outstanding players. Adam with four field goals to his credit was the high point man for the local five. Goldsberry made one field goal and four free throws. Grater, although credited with no points, played a good game at guard and perhaps kept the score of the winners down by his flashy guarding.

Vandivier and B. Friddle carried their team over to victory. The fast Franklin forward made thirteen points out of the twenty for his team, with three field goals and seven free throws. B. Friddle broke into the starting column when he caged the two long ones late in the game. Wabash had many attempts at the basket but failed to connect for points. The contest was witnessed by more than 2,000 persons.

Lineup and Summary

Franklin (20)	Wabash (16)
Vandivier	F	Burdette
Gant	F	Adam
C. Friddle	C	Pearl

Purdue Beats Irish

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 10.—Purdue handed Notre Dame a drubbing in a tough and hard-fought game here Tuesday, 39 to 20. Gullion's field goal early in the game gave Purdue a lead which it held for a short time until Enright and Kizer put Notre Dame in front, 5 to 2. Purdue players soon got their basket eyes open and started scoring until the half ended, when the count, 19 to 14, was in their favor.

The rest between halves did the Purdue men good, as they rapidly drew away to a big lead in the second half. Gullion and Robbins, by some spectacular shooting, kept the score mounting, but Robbins was a little off form in his foul shooting.

Coch Lambert gave Robbins and Treat their first real tryouts last night and after the game the supporters were of the opinion that the Purdue coach has two sets of guards evenly matched.

Toward the end of the game the Purdue subs were sent in for a short workout. Moss at forward was under fire for the first time. Robbins, while good on offense, played a fine game at guarding Masters and Eversman covered the floor in great style. Kizer kept the Notre Dame team in the scoring column with foul goal shooting and three field goals. Miller and Logan played strong floor games. Lineup and summary:

Purdue (39)	Notre Dame (20)
Masters	F	Logan
Eversman	F	Enright

PHYSICIANS URGED TO JOIN IN WAR ON DOPE

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Senator-Elect From New York Calls On Chicago Doctors To Help

CONGRESS CAN CHECK MENACE

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Physicians of the nation were urged to join in "the war on dope" by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, senator-elect from New York and Health Commissioner of New York City, in an address before the Chicago Medical Association here last night.

"Congress by the exercise of a little common sense can check the spread of this menace," Copeland declared.

"The manufacture of narcotics should be under the direct supervision of the government."

"We must work for international limitation of raising of opiate plants."

"The United States must prohibit the export of the drugs and must make every effort to break up the smuggling of opiates into this country."

Copeland asserted most doctors were out of patience with the Harrison anti-narcotic law because "it is filled with red tape."

"The medical profession is at fault in not dealing properly with drug addiction," Copeland charged. "Doctors are unwilling to have anything to do with it. Consequently the police are handling the underworld cases and 'quacks' are treating the addicts of higher society."

Robbins, Moss for Eversman, Wellman for Treat; (Notre Dame) Layden for Logan, Logan for Miller, Reardon for Layden, Miller for Enright, Enright for Reardon. Field goals—Gullion 6, Robbins 4, Eversman 3, Masters 2, Kriegbaum, Kizer 2, Enright 2, Logan. Foul goals—Robbins 5 out of 9; Kizer 10 out of 14. Referee—Young. Umpire—Maloney.

Teachers Drub Resc

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 10.—State Normal proved its superiority against Rose Poly. at basketball Tuesday night, when it defeated the Engineer five 58 to 12. The Teachers led by Barris, worked the ball in for many close shots, but dropped them in with the same degree of accuracy from around the foul line. The Normal players were off form in the first half. They missed easy shots, failed to follow in properly and guarded with lack of precision. The score at the end of the half was 15 to 7.

FIGHT RESULTS

San Antonio—Kid Pancho, local flyweight, was given a ten round decision over Jimmie Russo of Michigan here last night.

Atlanta, Ga.—Batting Barnett of Atlanta and Luke Tenner of Charleston fought 12 rounds here to a draw last night.

Mrs. W. E. Wallace entertained the members of the Loyal Women's class of the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening at her home in North Perkins street with an informal social evening and served delicious refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Miss Esther Morris daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pleasant Morris of near Orange and Milton Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Long of Fayette county, were quietly married this morning at 9:30 o'clock by the Rev. L. E. Brown, pastor of the Main Street Christian church, at his home in North Main street. Mr. and Mrs. Long reside in the Orange vicinity.

The Men's and Women's Bible class of the First Baptist church was delightfully entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Short in East Eleventh street Tuesday evening. Twenty-five members of the class were present and after a short business session, a very pleasant social hour was held. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Hobe Adams, Mrs. Charles Hollensbe and Mrs. Elizabeth Williams. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Clark in North Sexton street.

Fifty members attended the first meeting of the year of the Pastor's Aid Society of the Main Street Christian church, held in the newly decorated parlors of the church. At this meeting the new officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Theodore Abercrombie; vice-president, Mrs. Howard Carmichael, secretary, Mrs. Harry Lucas; assistant secretary, Mrs. Homer Cole; treasurer Mrs. Charles Osman; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Hallie Baldwin. Plans for the year were discussed and the ladies also made arrangements for raising their pledge of $1,000 on the remodeling of the church. It was decided that a penny supper would be held in the new basement of the church the last Friday evening in this month, January 26.

The charity ball which was given at the Elks club Tuesday night under the auspices of the Tri Kappa sorority, was attended by approximately three hundred persons and proved to be the most delightful event of the winter's social calendar. Feature dances added to the attractiveness of the program, which opened with a grand march shortly after nine o'clock and continued until one o'clock.

The grand march was converted into a baloon dance when six girls, dressed in the Tri-Kappa colors of black and white, distributed one hundred and fifty inflated balloons among the dancers. The girls assisting in this were Ellen Jane Capp, Judith Mauzy, Martha Jean Matlock, Martha Wyatt, Lora Dell Geise and Margaret Winslow.

The elimination dance also was a diversion from the usual program. Each man was "tagged and numbered" and as numbers were called the dancers were asked to leave the floor. Slowly but surely all but a half dozen couples were eliminated and these remaining were presented with tin horns, toy drums, tin pans and other noise-making devices with which they were requested to play for the dancers.

The music by Riley's orchestra of Muncie was regarded as the best heard here this season and was enthusiastically applauded for repeated encores. The orchestra also offered a specialty number, with the director impersonating Crentore and Miss Charlotte Norris sang one selection with the orchestra and was warmly applauded.

The gross receipts from the dance were $274.00 and with the expenses deducted, it is expected that approximately $175.00 will be realized for the Child Welfare association, which will use the money in correcting physical defects of school children whose parents are unable to do so. The sorority is indebted to the Elks lodge for permission to use the club

NEW STYLES FOOTWEAR IN WOMEN'S

This is the season when most shoe stocks are depleted and you find it so annoying and tiresome to search in vain for an attractive shoe that will suit the occasion. We have solved the problem for you by changing our system of buying. Formerly we received new styles twice a year, now we receive new styles every month.

Practically every time you come in our store you may expect to see something new.

For those that desire high heel pumps and straps, we have all sizes in beautiful Otter Ooze Tongue Pumps, Black Satin Cross Straps and Black Suede Strap and Tongue Pumps.

The new oxford styles for women are distinctly different; you'll recognize the new styles by the clever ways in which suede has been combined with patent and calfskin. There are suede overlays, underlays and every which way. Each one very swagger. There are any number of good looking styles in plain calfskin, too.

Those who find the day a tiresome drag, made so by improper foot fitting will be glad to know that they can be relieved and yet conform to both science and fashion by being fitted with FOOT SAVER shoes or oxfords—a corrective shoe, yet up to the minute in style.

The Columbus Republican contains an account of a recent meeting of the Columbus Ladies' Matinee Musical, at which Miss Jessie Kitchen of Columbus, formerly of this city, and Mrs. George Hogsett provided a part of the program. Miss Ida Edburn, soprano and director of music in the Columbus schools, gave the vocal part of the program, and Miss Kitchen and Mrs. Hogsett the instrumental.

Speaking of Miss Kitchen and Mrs. Hogsett, the Republican says:

The entire program was distinguished by its beautiful selections, Miss Edburn's songs showing the great variety of music offered through American compositions and Miss Kitchen's and Mrs. Hogsett's selections being unusually pleasing duo numbers. All three musicians showed themselves to be accomplished artists, both in their display of technical and interpretive ability.

In the concerto op. 22, second movement, by Saint-Saens, Miss Kitchen had an opportunity to show her audience what a thorough and accomplished musician she is. The concerto is a difficult one and requires skill and insight to play it. These two qualities Miss Kitchen has to a remarkable degree. The difficult passages were executed perfectly but the thing that impressed the audience most was the knowledge and understanding of the composer's moods which Miss Kitchen showed. Much instrumental performance leaves its hearers cold but Miss Kitchen's playing so ably augmented by Mrs. Hogsett, stirred her listeners to warm and heartfelt applause.

In the Arensky suite, the two pianists displayed again this universal interpretive power. Their splendid rhythm and the perfect correlation of the two pianos were the technical foundation for their fine performance.

Their apparent understanding of each other and their ability to express that unity of musical knowledge gave to the entire suite its charm and beauty. The softness and fullness of tone of the "Romance," the rhythm and pulsation of

the "Valse," and the strength and vigor of the "Polonaise" gave the parts of the suite musical individuality, while there was underlying the three and interpretive unity rarely exhibited by players of duo piano music.

Waited Till The Cows Came Home

"I am indeed glad to write you this letter. I was a terrible sufferer from gasses in the stomach and colic attacks. The specialist our family doctor sent me to in Philadelphia, gave me no relief although I took his medicine till the cows came home. He finally said I would have to be operated. Luckily I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy then, and although it is now three years since I took a course of it, I have never had a symptom of my old trouble since." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale by druggists everywhere.

FEATURE SOYBEAN AND VEGETABLES

Vegetable Growers' Were Welcomed To Purdue By Dean J. H. Skinner Of School Of Agriculture

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 10.—King corn, Indiana's leading crop, shared honors today with the soybean, a coming crop, and vegetables on the annual short course program at Purdue University. The annual meetings of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association and the Indiana Vegetable Growers' Association featured the short course program and several hundred of those here for the work attended one of these sessions.

Addresses by George M. Briggs, of the University of Wisconsin, a leader in boosting the soybean crop in the north; Charles Meharry, Attica, one of the largest growers of beans in the corn belt; and C. M. Vestal, of Purdue, who has done noteworthy work in the feeding of mineral mixtures to hogs to supplement the beans with corn, featured the corn growers' program.

"The soybeans is the dual-purpose plant of the plant kingdom," said Mr. Briggs. "It's many uses puts it in the first rank." He enumerated the growing of beans for seed, the feeding of them to all kinds of livestock in the field with corn or alone; the pressing out of the oil which is used for food purposes or paints; and the use of the soybean flour and meal. He discussed various production methods. Mr. Meharry showed the place of the soybean in the crop rotation and told of its value on his own farms in Fountain County and Champaign Co., Ill. Mr. Vestal discussed the feeding of the beans.

"Purdue experiments show that corn and soybeans may be made equal to corn and tankage for fattening hogs by adding a mixture of 10 parts of 16 percent acid phosphate, 10 parts wood ashes of pulverized limestone and one part of common salt," said Mr. Vestal.

The vegetable growers' were welcomed to Purdue by Dean J. H. Skinner of the School of Agriculture. Disinfection of vegetable seed to kill various diseases, was discussed by M. W. Gardner and F. C. Gaylord of the Purdue staff. Prof. O. G. Anderson and Prof. W. E. Lommel then spoke on profitable spraying practices for the garden, giving results of Purdue experiments. R. C. Hanley, superintendent of the new Federated Fruit and Vegetable Marketing Association, explained the work of this organization.

Ivan Morris, president of the Terre Haute Vegetable Growers Association and W. S. Roebuck, Fort Wayne, vice-president of the state association spoke respectively on the work of the local associations and gardening in Northern Michigan. Mr. Roebuck also has an extensive truck farm in northern Michigan in addition to one at Fort Wayne.

The other short course students were given instruction in corn, stock, poultry and dairy judging. Control of poultry parasites was discussed by C. R. Cleveland, who told how to get rid of lice, mites, etc. Other students learned how to

splice hay ropes and tie various kinds of knots which are used about the farm.

The women also learned of the use of pressure, steam and fireless cookers. Dean Sarah Louis Arnold, of Boston, Mass., spoke on "The Daughter of the House." Miss Marguerite Malon spoke on nutrition and Mrs. Helen McKinley of the Purdue staff gave a demonstration of hints in home dressmaking. Coeds gave a fashion show.

President E. C. Elliott and Dean Arnold will be the speakers on tonight's program.

From ALLEN'S

Business for 1923 has started off with a rush and we are confident that a year of prosperity is in store for all who put forth their best efforts.

Did you ever buy an unknown brand of goods at a supposed to be bargain price and find that you had been stung? It is our policy to buy the best goods to be had. Our lines are standard and we sell at a standard price. We do not try to make our customers believe that we are selling them a fancy article for the price of a common grade of the same article.

Take canned peaches for example, we have peaches for 20c, 25c, 30c and 35c per can and all good value for the price but we do not try and make you believe that our 20c grade is of 30c quality.

We have a splendid line of prunes. The markets have advanced considerably since our stock was bought and we are selling larger sizes at our present prices than we would be able to if bought at today's market.

You will always find a splendid display of fruits and vegetables at our store and sold at fair and honest prices.

Loyalty Flour is proving to be the best flour that we have ever sold. For a flour that was never heard of in Rush county until about 30 days ago the business we have already established is remarkable. Single bags sell for $1.15. We will quote barrel prices on request.

A Nation's Tribute to Buick

There is an inspiring tribute to an industry in the universal recognition annually accorded the National Automobile Shows.

Thousands come to these exhibitions from every section of the continent and from foreign lands as well, and their advent is widely heralded the world over.

In the twenty-third National Automobile Show, just opening in New York, and later in Chicago, the nation is provided with a display of its chief means of personal transportation. This display is so complete and so magnificently set forth that all who come may easily carry away a perfect picture of the latest accomplishments in motor car building.

Year after year the national shows receive the homage of the entire country. Year after year they mark by their own increased magnitude and splendor, the increased growth of the automobile industry.

In occupying first place at both national shows for the fifth consecutive year, Buick continues the position in the industry awarded it by universal public opinion. D-15-24-NP

Some Things The Indiana Parent-Teachers Association Accomplished During 1921-22

The following accomplishments of the Indiana Parent-Teachers are outlined by Birney D. Farthing, county superintendent of schools:

1. It was through the efforts of the Association, that the local associations were induced to co-operate with the county and city superintendents in observing American Educational Week, December 4-10, 1921.

2. The home economics department of the association suggested and introduced plans for hot lunches in schools and assisted local associations in carrying forward such work. And it is to be noted further that many associations in the state, themselves, actually carried on this activity.

3. A plan was worked out for the purpose of stimulating more interest in simplified dress for school girls by the chairman of the department of home economics of the State Association. This plan itself was three-fold—it took into account the style show, correct dress contests, and sensible, as well as tactful, talks to mothers on the subject. The point of view was entirely constructive.

4. The Association's policy of indorsement—standing flat-footed against legalized censorship of moving pictures was continued. The Association has always worked in very close co-operation with the Indiana Indorsers of Photoplays. The organization has sent out carefully selected lists of pictures in monthly bulletins.

5. The Association has taken an active part in encouraging the use of milk by the children of the state, and especially those who attended the public schools. The organization co-operated with Purdue University in a "Dairy Products Campaign." The purpose of this movement was to increase interest in the use of milk and dairy products.

6. By co-operating with State School Attendance Officer, in urging that every local association appoint a committee to assist state and local attendance officers, very effective work was done in raising the per cent of attendance. And it was due to this system that many children were able to go ahead with their school work. Otherwise they would have been compelled to lose many days attendance or to leave school altogether.

7. During the month of June plans were made for a memorial to the late H. C. Orme, former State President of the Association, and to whom the organization owes more for its present standing than any other person. It was decided to undertake this memorial in conjunction with that of the Riley Hospital for children. All associations were asked to do their part, to which all responded splendidly.

8. The Association assisted and was an instrument in securing legislation for better salaries for teachers, and at the same time took a stand for higher qualification standards for teachers.

9. The organization formulated a plan in conjunction with the Indiana State Teachers Association, whereby better trained teachers of home economics courses, could be had. The home economics courses were extended to include the care of children, home nursing and home management, and in going a step further

er by providing for better supervision of teachers of home economics.

10. The local associations were kept informed by the head office in regard to child labor conditions in the state. And pamphlets on the subjects published by the Industrial Board of Indiana, were distributed to local organizations through the association.

11. The work of the Boys' and Girls' Club Work Division of Purdue University was greatly assisted by associations over the state.

12. When the Interstate Conference on Education was held in Terre Haute in June under the auspices of the Indiana State Normal Schools, the association took a very active part in formulating some of the future policies in regard to Educational activities.

13. In all of the district conferences of school men held throughout the state by the state Department of Public Instruction, a discussion of parent teacher work formed an important part of the program, and the State Superintendent took this opportunity to inform school officials what he thought of the policies and work of the State Association.

14. All local associations throughout the state joined hands with Indiana University in the "Health Education Campaign". In this work two nurses were sent over the state giving lectures and demonstrations on the work of the public health nurses. These nurses spent from two to three days in various communities talking to high school girls on the nursing proposition, and to mothers on the health and care of their children. They carried with them motion pictures and other exhibit material.

15. The association recommended and was behind the movement for the observance of "Thrifty Week", February 17-23, 1921.

16. The local associations in the various parts of the state made some very expensive studies and engaged in a great many important activities along the following lines: State laws governing schools, the school curriculum, school equipment, school buildings and grounds, medical inspection and health teaching in the schools, the school course, school lunches, open air classes, school attendance, child labor, recreation and physical education, photoplays, community centers, problems of the high school, reading children, children in need of special care.

17. A kindergarten is maintained at the State Fair in September by the state Association. Two experienced and qualified teachers were in charge of the children each and something over 250 children were taken care of while their mothers were at liberty to enjoy the fair.

18. A discussion of the parent-teacher associations is outlined in township and city institute books as one of the general topics.

DISLOCATES JAW YAWNING

Kendallville, Ind., Jan. 10.—Mrs. Ernest Shaw, saleslady in a local department store, dislocated her jaw while in the act of yawning. Her mouth was wide open and she was compelled to remain in this position until a physician arrived and rendered aid. It was the most embarrassing moment of my life, she said.

Vegetable Compound to Keep Them in Health

A Mother's Advice Prevents Operation

Corona, N. Y.—"I had a terrible pain in my left side and had to go to bed every so often. Doctors had told me I must be operated on, but I do not believe in the knife and would rather suffer than go through it. My mother also did not believe in it and she made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped her. It has also helped me for I am better and able to do all my work. I recommend your medicine and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. BUSCH, Jr., 11 S. Railroad Avenue, Corona, N. Y.

A Sickly Child

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"I would like to say a few words about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About a year ago I thought it would be necessary for me to take my daughter out of school. She was losing weight, was nervous, and when she would come home from school she would drop into a chair and cry, and say, 'Mamma, I don't believe I can go to school another day!' I gave her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now she is a healthy, happy, hearty, strong girl and weighs 120 pounds. She has no difficulty in doing her 'gym' work, and she works at home every night and morning, too. I am a mother who can certainly praise your medicine, and if it will be of any benefit you may use this letter as a reference."—Mrs. GEORGE E. WHITACRE, 621 W. Madison Ave., Mahoningtown, Pa.

Every girl wants to be healthy and strong, and every mother wants her daughter to do well in school and to enjoy herself at all times.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for young girls just entering womanhood. Mothers may depend upon it. Remember it is prepared from roots and herbs, contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they will work in a healthy and normal manner.

For nearly fifty years it has been used by women of all ages, and these women know its great value. Let it help your daughter and yourself.

Gilbertine Tells How Her Aunt Died

CHAPTER X

Knowing my darling's innocence, I felt the insult shown her in my heart of hearts. Advancing, I met her at the foot of the stairs, and with one quick word seemed to restore her to herself.

She flushed and cast me an agonized look, which roused every instinct of chivalry within me. Advancing, I met her at the foot of the stairs, and with one quick word seemed to restore her to herself.

"Be patient!" I whispered. "Tomorrow they will all be around you again. Perhaps sooner. Go into the conservatory and wait."

She gave me a grateful pressure of the hand, while I bounded up stairs, determined that nothing should stop me from finding Gilbertine and giving her the letter with which Sinclair had intrusted me.

But this was more easily planned than accomplished. I at first found no one who could tell me to which room Miss Murray had retired. Then, when I did come across a stray housemaid and she, with an extraordinary stare, had pointed out the door, I found it quite impossible to gain any response from within, though I could hear a quick step, moving restlessly to and fro and catch the sound of a smothered sob or low cry. The wretched girl would not heed me, though I told her who I was and that I had a letter from Mr. Sinclair in my hand. I felt obliged to draw off.

As if in answer to my exception, a figure appeared at this very moment, at the other end of the hall. It was Dutton, the butler, and in his hand he held a telegram. He stopped before the door I had so unavailingly assailed a few minutes before.

"A telegram, miss," he shouted, as no answer was made to his knock. Mr. Armstrong asked me to bring it to you. It is from the bishop and calls for an immediate reply."

There was a stir within. Meanwhile, I had sealed and thrust forth the letter I had held concealed in my breast pocket.

"Give her this, too," I signified,

and pointed to the crack under the door.

He took the letter, laid the telegram on it, and pushed them both in. "I will wait for the answer," he shouted through the keyhole.

Withdrawing into a big dormer window, I waited to see if her door would open. I heard the lock turn, followed by the sound of a measured but hurried step. Dashing from my retreat, I reached the main hall in time to see Miss Murray disappear toward the staircase. I was about to follow when I perceived Dutton standing in the doorway she had just left, staring down at the floor with a puzzled look.

"She didn't pick up the letters," he cried, in amazement. "She just walked over them. What shall I do now? It's the strangest thing I ever saw."

"Take them to the little boudoir over the porch," I suggested. Mr. Sinclair is there and if she is not on her way to join him now she certainly will be soon."

Dutton caught up the letters and made for the stairs. I made my way down and reached the lower step of the great staircase just as a half dozen girls, rushing from different quarters of the hall, surrounded Mr. Armstrong coming from his own little room.

He put them all back and, raising his voice said:

"It has been decided by Miss Murray that, under the circumstances, it will be wiser for her to postpone the celebration of her marriage to some time and place less fraught with mournful suggestions. A telegram has just been sent to the bishop to that effect."

As he finished, Gilbertine appeared behind him. It was a mixture of almost inexplicable emotions that I saw her thread her way among her friends, in a state of high feeling which made her blind to their outstretched hands. She was making for the stairs. Another door opened down the hall, another person had stepped upon the scene, and Miss Murray, as well as myself, recognized by the hush which at once fell upon every one present that something of still more startling import awaited us.

"Mr. Armstrong and ladies" said this stranger. I have made a few inquiries since I came here a short time ago, and I find that there is one young lady in the house who ought to be able to tell me better than any one else under what circumstances Mrs. Lansing breathed her last. I allude to her niece, who slept in the adjoining room. Is that young lady here? Her name if I remember rightly, is Camerden—Miss Dorothy Camerden."

I felt the dart of sudden fear—or was it hope—that Dorothy, hearing her name called, would leave the conservatory and proudly confront the speaker in face of this whole suspicious throng. But no Dorothy appeared. On the contrary, it was Gilbertine who turned, and with an air of authority for which no one was prepared, asked in tones vibrating with feeling:

"Has this gentleman the official right to question who was and who was not with my aunt when she died?"

Mr. Armstrong made out to answer:

"This gentleman has every right, Miss Murray. He is the coroner of the town."

"Then," she vehemently rejoined, her pale cheeks breaking out into a scarlet flush, "do not summon Dorothy Camerden. She is not the witness you want I am. I am the one who uttered that scream; I am the one who saw our aunt die. Dorothy can not tell you what took place in her room and at her bedside, for Dorothy was not there; but I can."

Amazed, not as others were, at the assertion itself, but at the manner and publicity of the utterance, I contemplated this surprising girl in ever-increasing wonder. She looked at that moment as if nothing in the shape of fear or even contumely, could touch her. She faced the astonishment of her best friends with absolute fearlessness, and added:

"I feel it my duty to speak thus publicly, because, by keeping silent so long, I have allowed a false impression to go about. Stunned with terror, I found it impossible to speak during that first shock. Besides, I was in a measure to blame for the catastrophe itself and lacked courage to own it. It was I who took the little crystal flask into my aunt's room. I had been fascinated by it from the first, fascinated enough to long to see it closer and to hold it in my hand. But I was ashamed of this fascination, ashamed I mean to have any one know that I could be moved by such a childish impulse; so, instead of taking the box itself, which might easily be missed, I simply abstracted the tiny vial. It was with a feeling of decided satisfaction I carried this coveted object about with me till I got to my room. Then, when the house was quiet and my room-mate asleep, I took it out and looked at it, and feeling an irresistible desire to share my amusement with my cousin, I stole to her room by means of the connecting balcony. But I found the room empty. Dorothy was not there; but as the light was burning high I ventured to step in. Instantly, I heard my aunt's voice. She was awake and wanted something. She had evidently called before, for her voice was sharp with impatience. When she heard me in Dorothy's room, she shouted again, and, as I have always been accustomed to obey her commands, I hastened to her side, with the little vial concealed in my hand. As she had expected to see Dorothy and not me, she rose up in unreasoning anger, asking where my cousin was and why I was not in bed. I attempted to answer her, but she would not listen to me and bade me turn up the gas which I did. Then she commanded me to rearrange her hair and make her more comfortable. This I could not do with the tiny flask still in my hand, so with a quick movement, I slid it behind some bottles standing on a table by the bedside. But to attempt to escape her eye was useless. She had seen my action and at once began to feel about for what I had attempted to hide from her. Coming in contact with the tiny flask, she seized it, and with a smile I shall never forget held it up between us. 'What's this?' she cried. 'I never saw a bottle as small as this before. What is in it and why were you so afraid of my seeing it?' As she spoke, she attempted to wrench out the stopper. Presently it yielded and I saw the vial open in her hand."

"Aghast with terror, I caught at the table beside me. Instantly, her look of curiosity changed to one of suspicion, and repeating, 'What's in it? What's in it?' she raised the flask to her nostrils, and when she found she could make out nothing from the smell, lowered it to her lips, with the intention, I suppose of determining its contents by tasting them. As I caught sight of this fatal action, and beheld the one drop, which Mr. Sinclair had said was enough to kill a man, slip from its hiding place of centuries into her open throat, I could neither speak nor move. But when, an instant later, I met the look which spread suddenly over her face—a look of horror and hatred, accusing horror and unspeakable hatred mingled with what I dimly felt must mean death—an agonized cry burst from my lips, after which panic stricken, I flew as if for life, back by the way I had come, to my own room. This was a great mistake. I should have remained with my aunt and boldly met the results of the tragedy, which my folly had brought about. So I allowed a wrong impression of the event to go about, for which act of cowardice I now ask the pardon of every one here, as I have already asked that of Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Armstrong."
